TWO BOYS IN AUTO KILLED, TWO HURT BY STREET CAR

Fifteen-Year-Old Lad, Driver of New Machine That Collides With One-Man Trolley.

HAZARDOUS CROSSING IS SCENE OF CRASH

Robert O'Neal Lloyd Was Under Legal Age for Operating Motor Vehicle in Missouri.

Two boys were killed and two others gravely hurt last night when an automobile in which they were riding was demolished by a one-man Kirkwood-Ferguson street car at a hazardous crossing in Richmond Heights.

The dead:
Robert O'Neal Lloyd, 15 years old, the driver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Lloyd, 7530 Ethel avenue, Richmond Heights.
Norman Hollingsworth, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollingsworth, 1034 Commodore drive, Richmond Heights.

Russell Laver, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Laver, 1025 Commodore drive, suffered fractures of the left leg and left wrist and lacerations of the scalp.

Crossing Poorly Marked.
The automobile, a light eight-cylinder sedan purchased a week ago, was the property of Robert Lloyd's father. Although Robert was under the age limit—the Missouri law requires operators of motor vehicles to be at least 16 years old—he obtained permission to take the new car out to show to his friends.

"He back at 8 o'clock on the way to his father directed, and don't drive out of the neighborhood. Don't cross Big Bend or Clayton road. Keep out of heavy traffic," Robert promised. The scene of the collision, Eager road and the Kirkwood-Ferguson tracks, was within the bounds his father laid down. The elder Lloyd did not know of the concealed, almost unmarked track crossing.

Witnesses said Robert was driving in Eager road, downhill and recently paved with concrete, going between 35 and 40 miles an hour. Two-thirds of the distance down the hill is the crossing. Houses on the south side and a view of an approaching street car told the driver is within 60 feet of the tracks. The only warning marker is a dark, weather-beaten metal circle 15 inches in diameter about 12 feet east of the car tracks and fully 10 feet above the ground. It is mounted on a slender, black iron post.

Boy Locked Brakes.
The street car was north bound, running on tracks estimated about 40 miles an hour. With a block away a group of persons heard the squeal of brakes and turned to see the sedan sliding with wheels locked, straight toward the tracks. A second later the street car flashed into view, slowed perceptibly and then sped up. With a crash the sedan was hurled against a telegraph pole and dragged some distance down the tracks. The car came to a stop about 150 feet from the intersection. Several witnesses were released. Several accidents, none resulting in fatalities, have occurred at the crossing in the last year.

Motorman Under Bond.
George W. Hughes, 3319A Vista street, motorman-conductor of the street car, was released on $1000 bond pending an inquest. He said the brakes when he saw the automobile and then turned on the street ahead of the car. Lloyd was notified of the accident a few minutes after 8 o'clock, he called Richmond Heights police to find out why his son had not come home "on the dot," as usual. He said his son had been driving about six months and never had had an accident before.

MUSSOLINI BARS FASCISTS FROM "CATHOLIC ACTION"

Premier's Personal Ruling Raises Question of Virtual Abrogation of Concordat Between Italy and Vatican.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, July 9.—Premier Mussolini as chief of the Fascist party today forbade Fascist membership in Catholic Action organizations. He prohibited any of his followers from belonging to the several societies comprised in Catholic Action, branches of which were dissolved by the Government May 30.

The Vatican is now faced with the problem of whether the Fascist party action is equivalent to a Government action, and if so whether the bar on membership constitutes revocation of authority for such bodies to exist, which is an essential part of the church and state concordat.

Further, the Pope has always maintained that the concordat and the Lateran treaty must stand or fall together, and if the concordat lapses then the Lateran treaty also must lapse.

The Premier's order was transmitted by Giovanni Giurati, secretary of the Fascist party, as follows:
"Under the orders of his excellency, the Chief of Government and the Duce of Fascism, it is hereby declared that there is incompatibility between membership in the Fascist party and membership in any organization depending upon Catholic Action."

This order was sent today to all Federal secretaries of the party for immediate execution.

The Government attack on Catholic Action organizations May 30, when 15,000 clubs were closed, was limited to the youth and university clubs. This was done indirectly by dissolving all youth organizations which were not affiliated with the Fascist party. Today's action, although technically by the Fascist party, is a direct action by Premier Mussolini, who is head of both the Government and the party, and whose attitude toward the church organizations is thus made clear.

The organizations in which Fascist membership is forbidden number about 10,000 and have an adult membership.

Il Messaggero, regarded as Rome's most conservative newspaper, says the only solution to the difficulty between the Vatican and the Italian Government lies in abrogation of the Lateran concordat.

TOURISTS SEE HOW DENMARK PROTECTS ITS CROWN JEWELS

Alarm Set Off Accidentally and Gem Cabinet Sinks Through Floor.

By the Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, July 9.—What happens to persons who tamper with the crown jewels of Denmark was disclosed today to a party of foreign tourists.

While the tourists were inspecting the collection in the Castle of Rosenborg, the guide got too close to the treasure and accidentally set off a device installed to protect it. There was a deafening outburst of sirens and bells. The cabinet sank through the floor and all doors automatically closed. An attendant drew his revolver and commanded everyone to stand where he was. Carloads of police rushed up in fast cars and surrounded the castle. Explanations were made and the party was released.

MRS. HOOVER TO CHRISTEN NEW NAVY DIRIGIBLE AKRON

Will Release White Pigeons Instead of Breaking Bottle of Liquid Air.

By the Associated Press.
AKRON, O., July 9.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, will christen the new navy dirigible Akron Aug. 8, by opening the door of a cage, releasing white pigeons into the air.

The ceremony will set a precedent, balloons built here always having been christened by breaking a bottle of liquid air on the control cabin. Sponsors of airships have always worn gloves to preclude any possibility of releasing a frozen hand while handling the liquid air. In the case of Mrs. Hoover, it was decided that not even the minor risk should be taken. Mrs. Hoover is expected to arrive here by special train. The President will not attend.

FALL LAWYER ASKS COURT TO SUSPEND SENTENCE TO JAIL

Convicted Bribe-Taker So Ill Imprisonment Would Endanger His Life, Hogan Argues.

POMERENE URGES HIS COMMITMENT

Defense Presents Three Washington Doctors' Comment on Army Surgeon's Report on Case.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 8.—Frank Hogan, attorney for former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, moved in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today that Fall's jail sentence of one year be suspended because of his physical condition.

Previously, Atlee Pomerene, special prosecutor, had asked Justice Bailey to order immediate execution of the sentence.

Fall was convicted of taking a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man, for leasing naval reserve oil lands to one of Doheny's companies. He was fined $100,000 and sentenced to one year in jail.

Hogan reviewed Fall's illnesses during the trial and also presented affidavits by three physicians who had examined a recent report on Fall's condition by army surgeons in Texas. The physicians are Dr. Frank H. Dr. Thomas J. Clayton and Dr. W. D. Tewksbury, all of Washington.

The Army surgeons' report said Fall was suffering from hardening of the arteries and heart trouble as well as arthritis, chronic tuberculosis and chronic pleurisy. The affidavits of the Washington physicians agreed that, on the basis of the report, imprisonment would endanger Fall's life.

Government counsel had announced previously that they felt, after an examination of the report by the army physicians that Fall was able to come to Washington to begin his sentence.

Justice Bailey took under advisement today the Government's request.

Hogan ended his plea by saying there was no principle which required inhumanity from the law.

Pomerene said he did not believe suspension was justified. He said during the criminal trial following the oil leases Fall had been granted several continuances because of "his alleged ill health" and was examined by physicians during his trial in October, 1929. He said Dr. Leech at that time contended serious consequences might result from a continuance of the trial a week or 10 days.

Pomerene said he did not believe the integrity or ability of the physicians who had examined the former Cabinet officer, he said, but he remarked he had lost some faith in their prognosis because of the fact that Fall had been apparently in as good health as at the time of his conviction. He pointed out the fact that the trial in 1929 proceeded at the request of Fall.

Justice Bailey asked Pomerene if he had submitted the report of the army physicians to other physicians for recommendations to the court.

"It would be very difficult for me to pass on these matters without expert assistance," the Justice said.

Pomerene replied he would have the report submitted to physicians if the court so desired, but said he thought that examination of the report and the affidavits by the physicians Hogan had mentioned would show that Fall was able to come to Washington and begin serving his sentence.

Question of What Jail.
Pomerene read a memorandum from Assistant Attorney General Youngquist which expressed the opinion that Fall could be committed to some other jail than the one in the District of Columbia.

Hogan replied that it seemed mandatory that he be brought here to serve unless the sentence were suspended. Justice Bailey asked counsel to cite him authorities on whether he had the power to amend the sentence to send Fall to another jail, and whether he had the power to suspend the sentence without Fall's presence.

District Attorney Rover asked Hogan if he would consent to have the sentence amended and Fall's counsel replied that he would have to consult his client.

Pomerene said Fall could serve his sentence in the El Paso Jail. Fall went to the Texas City some time ago from his home in Three Rivers, N. M.

U. S.-TOKIO PLANE IS FORCED DOWN AT SOLOMON, ALASKA

Robbins and Jones Descend in 'Fort Worth,' Due to Inability to Refuel in Bad Weather.

GASOLINE TAKEN ON FIVE TIMES IN AIR

First Contact Over Fairbanks and Last Over Nome Before Crowd—Mother Ship Also Lands.

By the Associated Press.
SOLOMON, Alaska, July 9.—The projected Seattle-to-Tokio nonstop flight of Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Texas aviators, ended here at 3:50 a. m. today (8:50 a. m., St. Louis time), when unfavorable weather forced the monoplane Fort Worth down, unable to make a final refueling contact for the flight over the Bering Sea.

Bumpy weather made it impossible for the two planes to establish contact long enough to transfer enough gasoline to the tanks of the Fort Worth, the flyers said. The refueling ship landed soon after the Fort Worth came down.

The flyers were convinced the weather prospects ahead on the hazardous route over the Bering Sea to Tokyo were bad and for that reason gave up the flight.

Robbins and Jones put their monoplane down on Solomon Beach, 30 miles east of Nome, only 20 minutes after they had refueled over Nome for the fifth time since the flyers reached Fairbanks.

All residents at Nome stayed up all night to witness what was expected to be the next to the last refueling contact before Robbins and Jones started off on the last leg of their flight.

Weather conditions, which had been bad between Fairbanks and Nome, were improving as the two ships, the white monoplane and the large tri-motored refueling ship, made their way toward Nome.

The Fort Worth was close to schedule when it soared over Fairbanks at 7:33 o'clock (11:33 p. m., St. Louis time), last night, having flown about 1600 miles in 17 hours 36 minutes. The flyers had estimated their time to Fairbanks at 15 to 17 hours.

The flight from Puget Sound, lengthened because of the inland route over British Columbia and Yukon Territory, was completed in 24 hours despite headwinds in Eastern Alaska.

In quest of a $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper for the first nonstop flight across the Pacific, Robbins and Jones set a new speed record between Seattle and Fairbanks.

ASSISTANT HEAD RESIGNS AT NEVADA, MO., HOSPITAL

Dr. E. H. Coon Wrote in Charge at Time of Death of Neil Patterson of Springfield.

NEVADA, Mo., July 9.—Dr. E. H. Coon, assistant superintendent at State Hospital No. 3, who was in charge of the hospital at the time of the death of Neil Patterson of Springfield, submitted his resignation from the hospital staff today.

Patterson's death, his father charged, was due to "negligence and inefficiency." The father, a Springfield attorney, said his son died from appendicitis while he was being treated for uremic poisoning.

Dr. F. M. Grogan, superintendent of the hospital, was absent at the time Patterson died. Dr. Grogan said Dr. Coon's action was "acceptable," but declined to discuss further the investigation and what it may have disclosed. Dr. Coon could not be reached.

CHICAGO TO SAVE $2,400,000 MAYORS RETIREMENT PLAN OK'D BY COUNCIL COMMITTEE

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 9.—The city's per diem employees will be placed on a five-day week and all others receive extensions of vacation up to 20 days under a plan approved by the Council Finance Committee.

The arrangement was conceived by Mayor Cermak to cut $2,400,000 from the municipal budget and help Chicago out of its financial straits.

Alfredman Oscar P. Nelson objected to the plan as a "part of a program worked out by certain interests to set up Government as an example for employers to slash wages." The vote was 10 to 2 in favor.

HOOVER CABLES HINDENBURG, PREDICTS WORLD REVIVAL

All People to Benefit by Moratorium, He Says, Replying to German Message.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Hoover in a cable to President von Hindenburg of Germany today expressed his "sincere hope and expectation" that the moratorium would "revive confidence and promote prosperity among all peoples."

The message was in reply to Von Hindenburg's telegram of appreciation for Hoover's proposal.

The President's message follows: "I have received with great appreciation your communication of July 7. It is my sincere hope and expectation that this proposal which has been presented to and accepted by the nations of the world will revive confidence and promote prosperity among all peoples."

PRIME MINISTER MACDONALD ILL; DOCTOR ORDERS REST

However He Plans to Attend Peace Demonstration and Issue Arms Reduction Call.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 9.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was slightly ill today with what was variously termed an "internal chill" and an attack of "nervous indigestion." He left this afternoon for Chequers, his country place, to remain there until Saturday. He was feeling better than he had yesterday.

The strain of work in connection with difficulties in Parliament and the reparations situation was believed to be responsible for his indisposition. He surrendered his place in the House of Commons to Chancellor Philip Snowden last night and went home to rest.

A consultation with his physician, Sir Thomas Horder, failed to bring a statement, but it is understood that the diagnosis was not alarming and that cessation from work for the next few days was the doctor's prescription.

Macdonald plans to attend a peace demonstration at Albert Hall Saturday. With Stanley Baldwin, David Lloyd George and representatives from other walks of life he will issue a united call for reduction of armaments.

$70,000,000 WAR-TIME TOWN AUCTIONED OFF FOR $250,000

Nitro, W. Va., Has 30 Factory Buildings, 432 Residences, Nearly 1000 Acres.

By the Associated Press.
CHARLESTOWN, Va., July 9.—The war-time town of Nitro, W. Va., built by the Government for approximately $70,000,000, was sold at public auction yesterday to the Nitro Industrial Corporation for $250,000.

Thirty factory buildings, erected for the manufacture of explosives; their equipment, nearly 1000 acres of land and 432 residences were sold.

The property was owned by the Charlestown Industrial Corporation, which purchased the war-time city from the Government in 1921 for $8,000,000. A foreclosure action resulted in Federal Judge George W. McClintock ordering the holdings sold to satisfy a Government lien of $950,445.

The Nitro Industrial Corporation was formed by a group of Charlestown lawyers and engineers. They said they intended to put the property up for resale.

Earthquake Recorded Here.

An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded on the St. Louis University seismograph beginning at 6:15 o'clock this morning. It lasted for almost an hour. The center of the disturbance is thought to have been about 3200 miles eastward, in the region of the Azores.

LUTHER VISITS LONDON, PARIS TO NEGOTIATE GERMAN LOAN

Reichsbank President Reported to Be Trying to Arrange Long Term Credits of From $250,000,000 to $400,000,000

AMERICAN BANKS WOULD PARTICIPATE

British Papers Suggest Now Is Time for Berlin to Drop Customs Accord Plan and Contribute to Reconstruction.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 9.—Hans Luther, head of the German Reichsbank, paid a flying visit to London today and after a two-hours conference with the Ambassador at the German embassy left for Paris.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, traveled with Luther in the boat train from London. It is understood he is on the way to Basel in connection with the world bank meeting.

A Paris dispatch says Luther will confer with Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, tomorrow. His Paris visit has been expected for several days. Besides the question of new credits, it is said, Luther will try to renew the $100,000,000 credit granted last June and falling due on July 16.

Crosses Channel by Plane.
He left Berlin last night without announcing his plans and crossed the channel by airplane today. His itinerary, it is understood, will take him to both Paris and Brussels, before he goes to Basel next Monday for a meeting of the directors of the Bank for International Settlements.

His visit here brought no statement from any of the officials concerned, but it was understood that Luther is visiting the financial centers in an effort to negotiate a long-term credit of between $250,000,000 and $400,000,000 to shore up Germany's financial structure, weakened by heavy foreign withdrawals in the last two weeks.

Discussions Preliminary.
Only preliminary discussions took place here, it was understood, but these constituted an effort to induce the Bank of England to join private bankers in the United States and the Bank of France in underwriting a loan to Germany.

It was learned in authoritative quarters that nothing but the preliminary work will be undertaken here and that the loan, if it is granted, would be contracted at Paris, possibly so that Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, might participate in the conversations.

One reason for Dr. Luther's uncommunicative attitude while he was here was believed to be the injunction to silence which was placed upon Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius after their conversations with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at Chequers recently.

Speculation as to Amount.
A Berlin dispatch says Luther hopes to convince British financiers that the action of German industries in guaranteeing the Gold Discount Bank up to $125,000,000 entitles Germany to confidence abroad, and that he will propose a loan of $250,000,000, a sum regarded as necessary at this time to German economic life.

A previous Berlin dispatch said it was reported Germany was seeking an international loan of 2,000,000,000 marks ($500,000,000) on the strength of her national-wide "credit front" to restore confidence in her financial status.

Luther emphasized in a meeting with the press at Berlin that the scope of Germany's credit was not limited by the $500,000,000 mark guarantee underwritten by 1000 of the Reich's strongest firms.

"The 500,000,000 has the same relation to the syndicate's effectiveness," he said, "as an ordinary bank's capital stock has to its capacity for extending credit." The members of the syndicate represent assets exceeding 20,000,000,000 marks ($4,000,000,000).

The operation of the syndicate's $125,000,000 guarantee is described in a German Government decree. At the end of each semester the governing board of any credit losses to be made good. Each of the members in turn has to contribute in proportion to the responsibility that member assumed.

Suggestions that Germany assume responsibility for the reconstruction of the Azores.

Activities of two fast talking real estate salesmen who followed the wake of "free lot" subdivision promoters, offering to rescue purchasers who had become convinced they had made bad bargains, were interrupted yesterday when Postoffice inspectors went to the office of the Simber Realty Co., in the Sundate Trust Building, and arrested David Simon on a charge of using the mails to defraud.
Simon and his partner, Morry Schreiber, who is also named in the warrant, sent letters to disgruntled purchasers, telling them they had a market for the property,
with that as an opening wedge,
they were able in many cases to promote the sale of lots in another division, accepting as part payment the lots by the promoters who had gone before them.
Promises of quick resales at a profit they are said to have made resulted in the charges against them when customers complained that the promises were not kept.
Simon Released on Bond.
Simon lives at 750 Leland avenue, University City, was released on $5000 bond approved by Justice of the Peace Bender in the absence of both Federal Judges and United States Commissioner Burke.
Burke refused to discuss the charges. Slender in build, small in stature, and with a habit of smiling his closely cropped black mustache with quick, nervous gestures, he was the man who, according to officers of the Better Business Bureau, inspired the specie action which characterized the deals of the company.
Schreiber, portly and partially bald, five or six years older than Simon, who is 36, was more genial and his easy-going manner invited confidence in the firm's dealings.
He was not at the office when Federal officers arrived, but he is expected to surrender and give bond.
The warrant against them was issued on complaint of George J.
Bock, 4925A St. Louis avenue, a retired policeman. His was one of a number of complaints which Postoffice Inspector Noah is investigating.
Receivers Offer to Buy.
Bock had purchased 10 lots in the "Burke City" promotion of Morris Burke, whose companies are now in receivership and was delighted last April when he received a letter from the Simber Realty Co., inquiring if he would sell them.
He was not so elated when it developed that to sell them it would be necessary to buy four lots in Sunset Manor, a county subdivision on Lindbergh boulevard near Watson road, but agreed,
he said, when it was explained that the Sunset Manor property was improved, and that it could be sold within six months for a $1800 profit.
Bock's lots in Burke City were accepted in part payment at $1800.
He gave the Simber Realty Co.
$100 in cash, a note for $2000 receivable on his home, and another for $1700 secured by a mortgage on the Sunset Manor property.
The Sunset Manor subdivision is being promoted by William Reaser, William real estate dealer, who has an option contract with the Simber company, which provides that it will buy lots from him at a fixed price and may retain for its own any excess above that price that it may be able to secure in selling the lots.
Prices for the Sunset Manor property were varied, officers of the Better Business Bureau said, according to the value fixed by prospectors for lots in other subdivisions which were to be taken in trade.
One man who had five lots in Burke City demanded an allowance of $750 each for them, and was met with a counter proposal which he accepted. Forty-seven lots in Burke City which the Simber Co. had taken in trade were sold to him for $1350.
DISPUTE OVER HANGARS ENDED

Deed Them to City.
A misunderstanding about the disposition of two old hangars at Lambert-St. Louis Field, formerly used by the National Guard, was settled yesterday. The city had built a modern hangar for the army with bond funds, and expected to retain the old ones. War Department officers, however, thought the old structures belonged to the army and prepared to send them to Minneapolis.
Yesterday, Maj. Phil Love of the National Guard bought the old hangars from the army for $1 at an impromptu auction. He will deed them over to the city.

Webb, movie actress and daughter of the Santa Monica (Cal.) Chief of Police.
It was announced last night that the ceremony was performed by Police Recorder Herbert Lighthipe of West Orange, N. J., on Monday night. It was the second marriage for Vallee, who is 29 years old.
His marriage to Leone Cauchos McCoy, daughter of a coffee merchant, was dissolved after three months by annulment in 1928.
Miss Webb was a Vallee radio fan before she met him when he went to Hollywood to make a picture. She is a brunette, 23 years old, a dancer, pianist, swimmer and equestrienne. She played small screen parts with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount.
Theatrical and radio engagements for Vallee and his band are preventing a honeymoon trip.
Mrs. Charles Vallee, the singer's mother, described her new daughter-in-law as a charming and very pretty girl, with whom Rudy has kept company since 1928.
Mrs. Vallee held her bridal reception this morning in Studio A of the National Broadcasting Co. at Fifth avenue. Two dozen reporters, a dozen cameras, four moving picture machines, with operators, and studio executives and mechanics attended.
Vallee and his wife shared the spotlights, the flashlights and the questions fifty-fifty. For the ordeal the bride wore black and white satin and a clump of orchids set off with a pair of American beauty roses the color of her smiling lips.
Rudy was dressed in a navy blue double-breasted suit. He was cool and went through his prepared speech for the sound pictures four times without stammering or losing his poise.
Young Grove and a group of boys were in the pool, in the rear of the home at 1108 Hillside drive, Hampton Park, when he made a leap from the top of a small slide. Landing farther down than he had intended, he struck the slide where it projected out slightly toward the water.
He was able to reach the side of the pool where he called to his companions and was taken into the house. Examination showed he had fractured one vertebra. At the hospital today his condition was said to be good. He will be required to remain in a cast, however, for two months or more.
He finished his course at Country
Day School in June and was preparing to enter the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in September. His grandfather was Edwin
W. Grove, founder of the Paris Medicine Co., who left an estate valued at $18,000,000. He has one brother and a sister.
MAYOR WITNESS IN WILL CONTEST IN CIRCUIT COURT Case Was Settled But Hearing to Hold Instrument Valid Was Necessary.
Mayor Miller was a witness in Circuit Judge Hogan's court yesterday at a hearing to settle the contest over the will of Michael Noone, 4652 Vernon avenue, who died in October, 1927.
The will was drawn in 1923 in the law offices of Miller, and was witnessed by him and James E.
King, an associate.
Noone left his estate in equal parts among four of his daughters and Mrs. Charles Cronan Farres, 4231 Sacramento avenue, also naming Mrs. Farres as executrix. He described her as the sister of a friend. The daughters used to set aside the will on the ground that Noone was not competent and that he had been influenced. The contest was settled out of court, with Mrs. Farres agreeing to accept $50, 000. However, it was necessary to obtain a formal judgment upholding the validity of the will. The Mayor testified Noone apparently was of sound mind when the will was drawn.
MOTORMAN AND MOTORISTS DELAY FIRE APPARATUS
Chief Alt Says If Sirens Are Not Heeded, Arrests Will Be Asked For.
A request has been issued by Fire Chief Alt for operators of automobiles, trucks, busses and street cars to heed fire engine sirens. He said many drivers and motormen were disregarding these warnings.
The law requires a trolley to be stopped upon the approach of fire apparatus and vehicles to pull as close to the right curb as possible and halt.
Failure to observe this requirement is delaying the response to fire alarms, the chief declared, and unless the condition is changed he anticipates it will be necessary to ask the police to make arrests. Fire sirens are sounded only when apparatus is responding to alarms, bells being used on return trips.

CHICKASHA, OK., GREET'S
ROUND-WORLD FLYERS
Post's Parents Come In From Farm for Celebration of Flight.
By the Associated Press.
CHICKASHA, Ok., July 9.—
Wiley Post, one-time Oklahoma farm boy, and his Australian navigator, Harold Gatty, brought their globe-circling airplane "Winnie Mae" to another happy landing
here this afternoon.
After circling the Chickasha airport, the ship landed at 2:32
o'clock, from Columbus, O. F. C.
Hall, Oklahoma oil man who sponsored the round the world flight,
also was aboard the ship when it landed. A reception in which all Southwestern Oklahoma joined awaited the party.
First to greet the flyers were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post, parents of the pilot, who left their farm at Maysville, Ok., to participate in the celebration.
Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round-the-world flyers, flew over Lambert-St. Louis Airport today in the "Winnie Mae," bound for Post's home in Oklahoma. About a mile behind them were their wives in a sister ship of the plane they used in their record-breaking flight around the world.
With motors roaring at a 150-mile-an-hour pace, the planes dived
low in salute near the administration building at the flying field, rose quickly and continued on the way to Chickasha, Ok.
A crowd of several hundred, including persons employed at the field and others who had gone there in the hope that the flyers might stop for refueling, waved and cheered as they neared the airport
at 11:08.
They had left Columbus O., this morning, underfueled by an accident there yesterday, when the ship carrying Mrs. Post and Mrs. Gatty made a rough landing. The women escaped injury, but the plane was badly damaged.
Post and Gatty waited this morning until their wives were in the air, climbed into their own ship and took off from Columbus at 9:19 o'clock.

ROOKIES DRINK MILK
DURING DRILL PERIODS
Student Soldiers Get Refreshments at First Maneuvers on Parade Ground.
Refreshed by bottles of milk and heartened by cool breezes, youths
of the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks held their first drill today.
Divided into squads, the summer soldiers were told how to stand properly, salute smartly and execute simple squad movements. Lessons were given also in military courtesy.
The youths will not be permitted to drill with rifles until next week.
Squads dotted the parade ground
under the watchful eyes of officers of the Sixth Infantry as noncoms barked their orders, selecting an occasional "please" in deference to the youth and inexperience of the student soldiers. Each recruit received a bottle of milk during one or two 15-minute rest periods during the morning's drill.
The C. M. T. C. troops have been assigned to regular companies of the Sixth Infantry, bringing the companies up to full war strength of about 250 men each. The regulars aid in instructing the youths.
The enrollment of Camp Howe
now is 1600, all but five from Missouri and Illinois. About 100 youths were rejected for physical disability and some of those who received orders to report failed to do so.
Permission will be granted the recruits to go to St. Louis tomorrow afternoon. Sunday will be the first parents' day at camp.
Unarmed sentries, selected from the campers, were posted about the company streets yesterday. They appeared ill at ease but officers pointed out a few days of camp life would give them a military bearing and obviate such a spectacle as a soldier with a rifle over his shoulder and a cigarette in his mouth.
The athletic program got underway today and the boxing tournament will begin Monday in the camp's new stadium. Already keen rivalry has developed between companies, squads and tents. The morale of the encampment depends on this rivalry, officers said.

The Negroes were Sol Rogers
and his wife, Patsy, 5221 Water-

home by Max Bland, Negro, 216 East Haven street. Rogers was wounded in the abdomen and his that Rogers had fired at him first.

BODIES OF THREE
DROWNED RECOVERED
One in Meramec River, Two Others Near East St.

The bodies of three persons drowned near St. Louis were recovnell, 39 years old, of 4130 Delmar boulevard, drowned in the Meramec River at Fern Glen, west of Valley Park, was recovered at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, six hours after he was drowned.

Two bodies were recovered near East St. Louis. One was that of Walter Stant, 45 years old, a farm-hand living near Fifty-ninth street and Lake drive, East St. Louis, who was drowned in Pittsburg Lake Sunday morning. No one saw Stant drown, but he was reported missing by members of a fishing party who had last seen him wading in the lake.
The body of William H. Juenger, 32 years old, 5513 Ohio avenue,
East St. Louis, drowned Tuesday afternoon, at Sandy Beach, five

box proved to be empty.

Receivers and Investors' Committee Favor Check of Realty Firm's Operations.
Receivers for the E. Davis Realty & Mortgage Co. and eight allied concerns agreed tentatively yesterday with a committee representing investors in Davis real estate development syndicates on the selection of an accounting firm to make a complete audit of the Davis books subject to approval of the Circuit Court.
Sheriff Stroutman and John B.
Edwards, co-receivers, agreed that an audit was advisable, but raised the question of expense. Edwards said the receivers had only $202
in cash on hand to pay general expenses, explaining that other collections were segregated in individual syndicates. A representative of Price, Waterhouse & Co., public accountants, estimated that a complete audit might cost between $3000 and $5000.
Harry S. Glick, who, with Frank
E. Williams, represents the receivers, said Everett Davis, president of the Davis companies, had offered to co-operate with the receivers in selling lots in the St. Louis County subdivisions of the Davis syndicates. Davis recently opened an office in the Louderman Building as the Clayton-University City Realty Co.

U. S. NOTE TO CANADA ON "I'M ALONE" CASE

Seeks to Show Liquor Ship Sunk in 1929 Was American-Owned.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 9.—The United States in a formal reply to Canada's contentions in the celebrated "I'm Alone" case, sought today to prove that the liquor runner was American owned. The case is under arbitration between the two governments.

The "I'm Alone" was sunk by a coast guard vessel in the Gulf of Mexico in March, 1929, after a 200-mile chase.

Canada several months ago submitted its contentions to prove the sinking of the vessel unjustified. George Wharton Pepper, United States agent in the arbitration, contended that the theory of "hot pursuit" governed in the sinking. This had been questioned by Canada since the "I'm Alone" was sunk by another vessel than that which first halted it off the Louisiana coast.

The United States answer also said that the sinking was justified since the liquor ship refused to stop when halted.

If a United States coast guard vessel sights a liquor runner inside United States waters and closely pursues it outside the prescribed one hour's sailing distance from shore, it may, under international agreements, continue the pursuit without regard to the distance from shore limitations.

During the negotiations in the case, the United States government has endeavor to prove that the vessel was American-owned and that the Canadian registry existed with a view to making the ship immune to seizure.

The State Department declined to make public the text on the reply.

A Frenchman on the "I'm Alone" lost his life when the vessel sank.

RECHECK LIKELY TO INCREASE ST. LOUIS SALES RECORD

Census Bureau Answers Protest Against Figures on Wholesale Sales Transactions.

The Federal Census Bureau, responding to a complaint by the Chamber of Commerce that the preliminary census report of wholesale sales in St. Louis in 1929 was too low, declared that a recheck was likely to show an increase. The preliminary report gave the sales as $1,356,400,748. The chamber objected to this, asserting particularly that wholesale drug sales were much larger than shown.

Dr. R. J. McFall, chief statistician of the Census Bureau, in a letter received by the chamber yesterday, said many reports of sales struggled in after the major part of the field work was done, and it was necessary to set a definite date for ending compilations for the preliminary report. As a result, he pointed out, the additional data remained to be compiled for the final report. One reason for delayed information, he explained, was that it came from head offices of manufacturing companies maintaining sales branches here.

Recently the chamber protested that the census of retail sales for 1929 was too low, and a check increased that figure by $1,000,000, but the bureau is considering further allegations by the chamber that the total is still not large enough.

attache of Baltimore; Mrs. Gillespie and their child, and the Brazilian Consul and his wife and child were rescued by a Turkish tug boat from a sinking United States Embassy motorboat off Seraglio Point Tuesday night. The motorboat hit the hull of a wrecked ship lying off the point and began to fill. After a 20-minute wait, the tugboat heard their calls of distress and rescued all the occupants. A few seconds later the motorboat sank.

JUDGE WHO JAILED MEXICAN CONSUL DROPS CHARGES

Chicago Police Magistrate Quashes Contempt Case
Which Led to State Department Inquiry.By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 9.—Municipal Judge Thomas Green today quashed the contempt of court proceedings against Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican Consul. He had previously sentenced Dominguez to six months in the County Jail.

Judge Green issued the following statement in expunging the previous order: "To remove any possible belief that my act was any indication of my feeling toward Mexico or the Mexican people or was intended to create any unfriendly relations between the two countries, and to promote the general good feeling between the two countries (the order being directed only as to the individual), at the request of John J. Sonstebj, Chief Justice of the Municipal Court of Chicago, Judge Thomas A. Green entered an order expunging the order of July 1, which held Adolfo G. Dominguez in contempt of court . . . thereby closing the case."

Representatives of Gov. Emmerson and United States Attorney Johnson conferred with Mexican attorneys and Municipal Court Judges most of the day.

Chief Justice John H. Sonstebj of the Municipal Court had expressed regret for the arrest of Dominguez.

Dominguez was jailed Tuesday by order of Judge Green for contempt in that he allegedly created a disturbance in court.

Judge Sonstebj declared: "Consuls and Vice Consuls have immunity against proceedings in state courts, which immunity is granted as a matter of policy and not because of any treaty. Mr. Dominguez is entitled to this immunity. I am having a full investigation made and feel quite sure that I can adjust the matter to the satisfaction of all parties."

Dominguez was released on his own recognizance.

Mexican Spokesman Says Such Incidents Impair Good Will.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, July 9.—Foreign Secretary Genaro Estrada said yesterday that a harmful influence on the good relations between the United States and Mexico would result from repetition in the United States of such cases as the killing of two Mexican students by a Deputy Sheriff at Ardmore, Ok., the fatal shooting of a Mexican near San Diego by United States Immigration agents and the jailing of the Mexican Acting Consul in Chicago for contempt of court. He described the incidents "abuses of authority."

He described the action of Judge Green in Chicago as "bustive."

El Universal Grafico said in an editorial that it has been convincingly proved that "Americans don't like us."

$5,000,000 MISSOURI ROAD BONDS SELL FOR $4,819,950

Highway Issue at 3½ Pct Is First In State to Be Sold at Less Than 4 Pct.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 9.—Five million dollars' worth of Missouri road bonds were sold yesterday by the State Board of Fund Commissioners to a syndicate headed by the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, for $4,819,950. The bid was $6.59, several points under par.

The bonds bear interest at 3½ per cent, maturing at the rate of $1,000,000 a year after 1948. The issue is the first Missouri road bonds to be sold at less than 4 per cent interest.

Six bids were received, the lowest of which was $4,760,000.

The bonds will be delivered within a few days by State Treasurer Larry Brunk.

By fixing the interest at 3½ per cent the State Fund Commission expects to save about $250,000 despite the fact the bonds sold for less than par. The savings will be made on interest payments.

Named to Normal School Board.

RETIRED COLONEL WILLS $60,000 TO SERGEANT

Bequest Surprise to Soldier Whom Officer Promoted Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Charles Hermann Paine, wealthy retired army officer, who died a year and a half ago in Beverly Hills, Cal., left $60,000 to Sergt. Peter E. Boyle, who served in his company. The money was paid today to Boyle, who is now stationed at Governor's Island in the organized reserve office.

Col. Paine's estate included oil fields in Oklahoma and real estate in California and Vermont. He retired from the army after 30 years of service. Sergt. Boyle will retire next June after a similar service.

"I haven't the slightest idea why Col. Paine should leave this money to me," Sergt. Boyle said today. "I didn't do any favors for him. He was the sort of man who would not ask anything more from those under him than duty required. He was Captain of Company C, 29th Infantry, at Fort Porter, Buffalo, when he made me first sergeant of the outfit. I was with him at Camp Gaillard, Canal Zone, too, until 1916. I haven't seen him since I was commissioned a Second Lieutenant and sent to Fort Riley, Kan."

NORTH CAROLINA REFUSES TO DROP SUIT AGAINST LEA

State and City of Asheville Demand 10 Per Cent Payment in Advance.

By the Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 9.—The State of North Carolina and the City of Asheville yesterday refused to drop civil suits against Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher and financier, unless 10 per cent of the amount involved is paid cash in advance.

Luke Lea Jr. and E. P. Charlet of Nashville, another associate, are indicted with Lea in connection with the failure here last year of the Central Bank & Trust Co., with several millions of dollars in city and county funds on deposit.

Representatives of the bank, the City of Asheville and the State Bank Commission met yesterday to consider a proposal from Col. Lea that he liquidate his North Carolina indebtedness by a series of regular payments in lieu of the civil actions now pending. A joint statement issued after the conference said the creditors agreed that after 10 per cent of the total amount is paid, consideration will be given the proposal and that a "reasonable system of liquidating the debts could be devised." The indebtedness includes approximately $1,300,000 which Lea and his associates are said to owe the defunct Central Bank & Trust Co. and the City of Asheville.

DENIES JOEL HARRIS WAS CREATOR OF 'UNCLE REMUS'

Coca Cola Firm in $10,000,000 Suit Says Characters Are From Folk Songs.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 9.—Replying to the $10,000,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Esther Laroche Harris, widow of Joel Chandler Harris, the Coca Cola Co. yesterday argued that "Uncle Remus" characters were not creations of the author, but originated from folk songs of Southern Negroes for many generations.

Mrs. Harris brought suit on the ground that the Coca Cola Co. had infringed on the copyright of the Uncle Remus series by using illustrations for advertising purposes. The Coca Cola Co. replied, in its answer filed in Federal Court, that "Brer Fox," "Brer Rabbit," "Brer Tarapin" and all other figures in the Uncle Remus series were entirely "in the public domain" and that they were not Harris' original conceptions.

The answer states that permission for use of the illustrations in Coca Cola advertising was obtained from the New York Publishing house that held the copyright.

MOUNTAINEER KILLS GIRL, SELF

She Had Spurned Attention of Father of Five.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE FOXAWAY, N. C., July 9.—A 45-year-old father of five children yesterday at Sapphire Inn, near here, shot to death a girl who had spurned his attentions and then went to his home and killed himself.

With a deliberation characteristic of the mountain people, Charlie Bryson called the girl, 18-year-old Edna Hinkle, to the back door of the inn, where she was employed as a waitress, and fired six bullets into her body. She died outright. Bryson, after shooting the girl, called friends and told them to summon hearse for two bodies. He went to his home nearby, sent his children away and lay down on a couch. Drawing the same pistol he had used to kill the girl, he fired into his breast.

Justifies U. S. Killing of Mexican.

EAN DIEGO, Cal., July 9.—Investigation of the fatal shooting of Ruben C. Pardo, 35-year-old Mexican by tw. United States immigration officers May 21, was closed yesterday by District Attorney Whelan, who said criminal action was not warranted. Pardo was shot while trying to escape from inspectors Harry Cunningham and Joseph Byrne following his arrest for illegal entry 60 miles north of here. He died three days later.

EX-STATE'S ATTORNEY CITED FOR DISBARMENT

Maclay Hoyne One of Nine Chicago Lawyers Named
by Investigators.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 9.—Maclay Hoyne, State's Attorney of Cook County from 1912 to 1920, and 46 other Chicago lawyers charged with participation in the Chicago Sanitary District payroll scandals, are recommended for disciplinary action in a report by a commissioner of the Illinois Supreme Court.

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, delegated by the court to hear testimony and submit a report, proposed disbarment of nine lawyers; two-year suspension of 11, including Hoyne, and one-year suspension of 27. He recommended that seven be acquitted and that one have a further hearing.

The specific charge against most of the 55 former attorneys for the sanitary district was that they accepted salaries without adequate public service.

In making public his 750-page report, Taylor said he wanted to stress that it was "merely advisory." Objections must be filed before Aug. 17, he announced, and arguments are to be started Sept. 28.

Hector A. Brouillet, who headed the district's legal department in 1925 and 1926, was one of the seven recommended for acquittal.

SOUTHERN COTTON FARMERS CUT ACREAGE 10 PER CENT

41,491,000 Acres Estimated Under Cultivation July 1, Smallest Since 1925.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 9.—Southern cotton farmers, faced by low prices and heavy surpluses, have cut this year's acreage 10 per cent under 1930 plantings.

The Agriculture Department yesterday estimated the area under cultivation on July 1 at 41,491,000 acres as compared with 46,078,000 last year. This, the smallest acreage planted since 1925, is 11.8 per cent less than 1929 planting and 14.9 below the record acreage of 1925.

Private estimators had foreseen a somewhat greater reduction. New Orleans dispatches said, and cotton declined nearly $2.25 a bale after the Government report was issued.

Carl Williams, cotton member of the Farm Board, said the reduction "is a good sign southern farmers, planters, bankers and land owners are beginning to co-operate with the Farm Board. It is only beginning, to be sure, but they can't be expected to go all the way the first year."

BINGHAM FLIES IN AUTOGIRO FROM CAPITOL TO GOLF CLUB

Senator Takes Off at Capitol and Flies 12 Miles to Club in 11 Minutes.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 9.—To demonstrate the practicability of an autogiro for the business man, Senator Bingham took off from the Capitol plaza in one today and was ready to tee off at his golf club 11 minutes later.

The Connecticut Senator, who is president of the National Aeronautic Association, predicted within the near future business men would be using autogiros to take them out to golf clubs for a few holes after regular business hours at their offices.

Bingham flew from the Capitol to the Burning Tree Golf Club, 12 miles away, in 11 minutes. It usually requires about 45 minutes to get to the club in an automobile. The Senator was piloted by James G. Ray, vice president and chief pilot of the Autogiro Company of America, who recently landed on the south grounds of the White House. Ray landed the plane on the hard asphalt surface of the Capitol plaza with a run of less than 25 feet. He took off in about half the length of the Capitol, or 400 feet.

ALLEGED GAMBLER ORDERED OUT OF SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

L. F. Morris, Associate of Mardock of Closed Mounds Club, Threatened With Prosecution.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 9.—Lon F. Morris, former Madison County resident, was told yesterday by State's Attorney Fullender to leave Springfield before Saturday with the alternative of facing prosecution for conspiracy to violate the State gambling laws. The police assert that Morris is an associate of Harry Mardock, proprietor of the closed Mounds gambling club near East St. Louis, in a gambling syndicate in Sangamon County. The State's Attorney ordered him yesterday to remove all slot machines in the county which are owned by the syndicate. The order follows a raid Tuesday on Morris' handbook establishment.

Movie Competition in Panama.

By the Associated Press. PANAMA CITY, July 9.—Increasing competition between Canal Zone and Panama movie theaters has resulted in a decision by Secretary of the Treasury Jimenez of Panama to request Canal Zone officials to bar persons not employed in the zone from zone theaters. Canal Zone movies are cheaper than those of Panama. As a result they are attended by American residents of Panama City and also Panamanians. Two theaters were closed in the capital recently.

JUDGMENT FROM MILLIONAIRE

She Testified California Art Collector, 67, Refused to Marry Her After Getting License.

By the Associated Press.
 LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 9.—Martha Marie Gullickson, 34 years old, Chicago stenographer, today held a judgment of $10,000 against Albert Fuchs, 67, millionaire art collector of Santa Monica, as the result of a breach of promise case tried here.

Miss Gullickson sued for $500,000, alleging Fuchs had introduced her to friends as his wife and then had refused to marry her. The jury returned a verdict in her favor last night.
 Testimony showed they applied for a marriage license here, but when Miss Gullickson obtained it three days later, Fuchs had changed his mind.

 "She didn't take exercise and didn't like my birds," testified Fuchs.

Hunting Lion at New Madrid.
 NEW MADRID, Mo., July 9.—A lion, until recently one of the chief attractions of a small circus, is the object of an intensive hunt in Southeast Missouri. Several persons living in the vicinity of East Prairie have reported seeing the animal roaming the outskirts of a heavily wooded section. Farmers reported the lion had caused considerable damage, killing calves, hogs and other animals for food. The lion escaped several days ago, when a circus truck overturned on the highway near here.

No Action as to Kansas City Star Until Specific Complaint Is Filed.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, July 9.—Postmaster-General Brown has advised Henry L. Doherty had requested that the publication be barred from the mails, alleging the Star was responsible for an order forbidding the sale of certain Cities Service stocks in Kansas.

In his letter Brown wrote: "Section 335 of Title 18 of the United States code directs the Postmaster-General to exclude from the mails matter of a 'libelous, scurrilous, defamatory or threatening character,' but only when such matter appears 'upon the envelope or outside cover or wrapper' of mail matter or upon 'any postal card.'"

Brown explained that when "any specific case of violation of postal laws is directed" to the attention of the department an investigation is made.

Officials of the department said that unless Doherty made a specific complaint against the publication the question would be dropped.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC Sales and Service

Everywhere in Metropolitan St. Louis

These Selected Dealer Organizations are making new friends and keeping the old

THE splendid acceptance that metropolitan St. Louis has accorded our cars, naturally, is a source of great pride and satisfaction to the Oakland Motor Car Co.—our reward for designing carefully and building well. Yet, to us, it means also an obligation of high importance, an obligation to keep faith with St. Louis as St. Louis has kept faith with us.

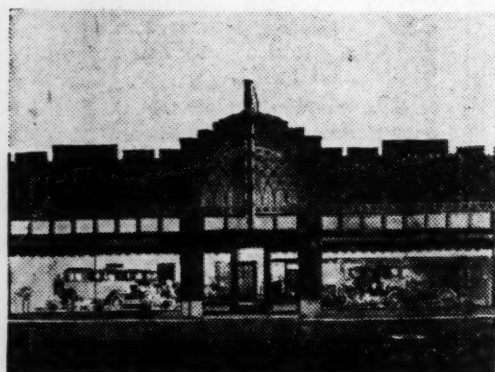

Toward this end, we have given very careful attention to the development of the connecting link, the dealer organizations that sell our cars and render our service in this city. Ten selected dealers, strategically located for your convenience, have been thoroughly trained to carry out all the policies of friendly square dealing which are the basic principles of our business—to give the dependable, efficient, personal kind of automobile service that makes a friend of every new Oakland and Pontiac owner, that keeps the friendship of all who drive these fine cars.

GIRL'S FORMER SUITOR HELD FOR KILLING HER COMPANION
Bodies of Young Man and Woman Found in Quarry Pool at Lima, O.

LIMA, O., July 9.—James May, 22 years old, is held at Toledo for the Allen County grand jury on a charge of the murder of Earl Truesdale, 20, whose body was found in a stone quarry pool here, along with that of Miss Thelma Woods, 17.
May, said to be a former suitor of Miss Woods, was arrested here yesterday and taken to Toledo by Sheriff Jesse Sarber, who feared violence here. After his plea of not guilty before a Justice of the Peace, May was ordered held without bail. Truesdale and Miss Woods disappeared on the night of May 30, and May was one of several persons questioned. Later officials released him. They declined to disclose the evidence on which the arrest was made. The affidavit for the arrest was signed by Don Truesdale, Earl's father.
The younger Truesdale's body showed evidence that he had been beaten. It was weighted down in the pool. When last seen he and Miss Woods were together.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 9.—A smooth, all-pavement highway through Northwest Arkansas has become a reality with the opening of United States Highway No. 71. The new highway provides concrete from Gravette, four miles from the Missouri State line, to Fort Smith, and traverses a good portion of the scenic northwestern section.

SPECIAL SESSION IN TEXAS TO DEAL WITH OIL CRISIS
Legislature to Meet Tuesday to Seek Way to Enforce Proration Orders.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 9.—Texas legislators are to return to the State Capital next Tuesday to consider the acute East Texas oil situation.
Gov. Ross S. Sterling issued a call for a special session yesterday, saying he sought the enactment of laws to strengthen the power of the State's regulatory decrees. Breakdown in enforcement of the State Railroad Commission's oil proration orders led to the call. The commission's orders limiting production were freely violated for many weeks. Production in the new East Texas field reached almost 400,000 barrels daily. The unchecked flow there was blamed by many oil men for the collapse of the oil price structure. Oil, which once sold for $2 and $3 a barrel, dropped as low as 10 cents.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 9.—W. N. Stokes, chairman of the Oklahoma City Oil Operators' Committee, has called a meeting here Friday to consider a plan to shut down the Oklahoma City oil field until the market for crude has revived.
Stokes is an attorney for the T. B. Slick interests.
Frank Fuller, Clown, Dies.

UNCANNY TAKES CANARSIE STAKE AT AQUEDUCT

By the Associated Press.
AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 9.—The time-honored Canarsie Claiming Stakes, at five furlongs, brought together 10 juveniles here this afternoon and when the shouting was all over the 10-4-1 shot, Uncanny, flying the orange and white banner of J. H. Louchheim, proved best. The colt just lashed to beat the Linton Farm's Porgie by a nose, while third money was annexed by J. J. Robinson's Renaissance, which was three lengths back.

The race was worth $5000 to the winner, which covered the distance in the good time of :59 1-5 over a track not quite fast and drying out.

The start was good but Affirmative immediately interfered with Renaissance, which in turn bothered Whiskey. Marvel, heavily played, had no speed at any time and showed a very dull performance.

Uncanny was sent to the fore by George Rose and the Master Charlie colt opened up three lengths of daylight over Porgie, with Renaissance, which had recovered quickly, running third. They never changed and had the race amongst themselves all the way. Uncanny suddenly tired in the final furlong and Porgie, finishing powerfully, just failed to take the award.

Soccer Dropped AS AN OLYMPIC SPORT FOR 1932

There will be no soccer competition at the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in 1932, but an effort is being made to promote a world's championship soccer tournament to be held in connection with the World's Fair to be held at Chicago in 1933. This was the information received today by Winton E. Barker, a member of the National Challenge Cup Committee from officials of the United States Football Association.

Differences in opinion regarding the amateur rule and the payment of players for time lost from their employment between the British Association and other countries is the reason for the cancellation of the soccer championships at the Olympics. It will be remembered that at the last Olympic Games, Great Britain did not enter the soccer competition. Rather than cause any more arguments, the sport will be dropped at the 1932 renewal, according to a letter from Dr. G. Randolph

Manning, a member of the Olympic Soccer Committee.

At the tournament proposed for Chicago, the following year, it is planned to hold competitions for both professional and amateur eleven. In this way it is figured that a real world champion in both divisions would be crowned. Details have not been worked out, but President Patterson of the U. S. F. A. will without a doubt organize a committee in a short time to thresh out the matter.

The annual meeting to elect officers for the coming year for the St. Louis Soccer League will be held late this month. The circuit will open its season right after the baseball season is closed.

STASIAK THROWS ALLEN EUSTACE IN ROUGH BOUT

Stanley Stasiak, upon whom Prof. Darwin would look with a speculative eye if he were still among us, pinned Allen Eustace of Kansas in the advertised feature of a wrestling show last night at Delmar Stadium.

Stasiak used a crotch hold and slam to subdue Eustace after apparently weakening him by locking his hands and using his forearms as a club on the back of Eustace's neck to beat him to the floor.

Gouging, hair pulling, shin kicking and ear pulling were some of the fine "arts" of "wrestling" employed by Stasiak, a 245-pound native of Poland with enlarged ears, long dangling arms, closely cropped hair and a face that registers the most delicate of emotions. Eustace, also, was not averse to such practices as twisting Stanley's nose, but that tall Kansas sunflower was more sinned against than sinning.

The semi-final, between Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., and Frank Judson of Boston, went to a 45-minute draw and was also marred by some rough stuff. In a mix-up in a corner of the ring, Malcewicz tore the center rope down and got tangled up in it, but showing the spirit of real actors, the wrestlers went on with the show. After a minute or so Joe untangled himself and an unidentified hero stepped forth, took the belt from his trousers and used it to moor the rope to the ring post. The unidentified hero then stepped back and watched the remainder of the show—with his hands in his pockets.

Hank Bruder, former Northwestern football captain, butted over one Charley Peterson of Chicago in 20 minutes 58 seconds, and George Trafton, also a former football player, butted George Kogut of Chicago out of the ring for keeps in four minutes 45 seconds. Kogut fell on a woman sitting next to the ring, but she retired, unhurt. Kogut was carried feet first to the dressing room.

The show attracted 526 persons and a cash gate of $434.40.

MIDGET WOLGAST IS SUED FOR $50,000

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Midget Wolgast, who tomorrow night defends his flyweight boxing title in New York against Ruby Bradley, Holyoke (Mass.) Negro, yesterday was sued for $50,000 damages by Carman Manara of Atlantic City, and his daughter, Rose, 19.

The suit charged Wolgast and two companions lured the girl to their apartment and subjected her to brutal treatment.

Wolgast was released under $5000 bail after his arrest Saturday on Miss Manara's charge that he took her to the apartment, attacked her and held her prisoner for two weeks. James Farina, 25, and Louis Pirolli, 23, were arrested with Wolgast and were named co-defendants in the damage suit.

FORMER PROSECUTOR GOT "TIPS," NOT BRIBES

Weston Admits He Did Not Report $9000 on Income Tax Returns.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 9.—John G. Weston, former Women's Court Prosecutor, acknowledged on the witness stand today that between 1921 and 1929 he never reported on his income tax returns "gratuities" totaling $9000 he said he received from lawyers representing persons he was supposed to try to convict. It was Weston's third day of testimony in disbarment proceedings against 15 attorneys of "Lawyers Row" across the street from Women's Court. Although he first testified gifts of money he took from lawyers were bribes for "laying down" on his prosecution, he later amended this to say the lawyers did not bribe him, but merely tipped him, as one would a waiter, and that in each case he did his best to obtain a conviction.

Today he testified that not only had he taken money from lawyers, but also from one policeman. He said that James Quinliven, a former member of the vice squad, who was dismissed because of revelations during the Seabury investigation of city courts, had given him money on two occasions. Quinliven gave him $50 after the acquittal of a woman the policeman had arrested, and later gave him $25 after similar disposition of another case. Weston denied that while he was a truant officer before he became an Assistant District Attorney he ever accepted money from parents to let their children stay out of school.

Consider your Adam's Apple!! Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

What effect have harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos upon the throat? A famous authority, retained by us to study throat irritation, says:

"The tissues above and below the vocal chords and the vocal chords themselves may become acutely or chronically congested as a result of the inhalation of irritating fumes, in the case of chemists for example."

LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays, expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. So "Consider your Adam's Apple"—that is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS
CHOOSE JUDGE JONES

Carrollton Man Nominated for Supreme Court—G. O. P.
Convention Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
VANDALIA, Ill., July 9.—Breaking a deadlock that lasted two days,
the Democratic convention of the Second Supreme Judicial District
last night nominated Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton as the party's candidate for successor to Justice William M. Farmer, recently resigned.

The nomination was made by acclamation on the seventy-eighth ballot after all four candidates had released their delegates from pre-convention pledges and instructions.
Judge Franklin R. Dove of Shelbyville, who gave Judge Jones a close fight from the opening of the convention, jumped to the platform at the end of the seventy-sixth ballot and freed his supporters
from their pledges.

Judge Jones has been a resident of Carrollton, Greene County, for many years. He has been City Attorney of his home city, State's Attorney of Greene County and a member of the Illinois General Assembly for two terms. In 1914 he was elected a Circuit Judge in the Seventh Judicial Circuit to fill the unexpired term of Judge Owen P.
Thompson, resigned. He was re-elected in 1915, 1921 and 1927.
After his second election, Judge
Jones was designated as a Justice of the Appellate Court of the Second District by the Supreme Court.
He now is Presiding Judge of the Second Appellate Court.

Judge Jones was the Democratic nominee for the governorship in 1924, and in the face of a Republican landslide his vote exceeded that of the Democratic nominee for the presidency, John W. Davis, by about 500,000.

DENIES BRUTALITY
IN DISCIPLINE AT U. S. REFORMATORY

Superintendent at Chillicothe, O., Admits, However, That Housing Conditions Are 'Deplorable.'

WAR DORMITORIES
ARE STILL IN USE

Warden Says Wicksham Board Investigation Was Made by a 'Sob Sister'
From California.

By the Associated Press.
CHILLICOTHE, O., July 9.— Albert MacDonald, superintendent of the Federal reformatory here, yesterday agreed in part with the Wicksham Committee report to President Hoover, but denied vigorously that discipline was too rigorous.

Commenting on the report Mac-Donald said: "All I can say is it is the Wicksham report. I might add I am guilty but not to blame."
He qualified this statement by saying conditions at the reformatory site of the old war camp Sherman were deplorable because old bar-acks, built 13 years ago for use during the war, were being used as temporary dormitories for prisoners and were entirely "inadequate" for the proper care of the inmates. The new dormitory, he added, is taking form rapidly, but will not be ready for nine months.
The committee criticism of the mess and sanitary conditions at the reformatory were well founded, the Warden said, and were due to the makeshift character of the prison
as it now exists.

Charges of too rigorous discipline were not true, MacDonald said. He added that "an aged woman from California was sent here to make the investigation." He termed her
"of the sob sister brigade," and said
the fact was that discipline at the reformatory is the least rigorous of any prison in the world.

Another Superintendent Calls Report "Sensation Seeking."

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., July 9.—Joseph St. Peter, superintendent of the Monroe reformatory yesterday announced that section of the Wick-sham report referring to the institution here as "ridiculous, inaccurate and sensation seeking."
The Monroe reformatory is not a juvenile boarding school, declared St. Peter. "I'm offering no alibis and no apologies. This is a penal institution where close to 700 law violators are confined.
"They are treated as men, not as cattle. But they are out of the class of juveniles as if they violate institution rules they must take the consequences."

SENATOR DAVIS CALLS CUT
IN WAGES 'BAD BUSINESS'

Destroys Individuality and Leads People to Communism, He Says; Praises Moratorium.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Senator
James J. Davis, Pennsylvania, said in a statement here yesterday that it was "not alone bad business" for employers to reduce wages, "but it destroys the individuality and the morale of our own people and takes them out into the open highway of Communism, which means the destruction of our form of government."

The Senator's statement was made in connection with a discussion of the debt moratorium. "President Hoover's proposal, as I see it, is aimed to bring about the stabilization of world economic affairs, as well as being helpful in bringing about world peace," Senator Davis, who formerly was Secretary of Labor, said.

"Hoover's moratorium," he said,
"has sent a golden stream of good will into all the nations of the world. Let us, too, send the spirit of good will to all our people, and see to it that no one shall go hungry while we are emerging now from this, the world's greatest depression."

German Friend of Hoover Dies.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 9.—Friedrich Neuberg, director of the Commercial Bank of Berlin, and said to be a friend of President Hoover, died today at the age of 50. On a visit to New York last March he suffered a heart attack from which he never fully recovered.

Rumania Fires 2000 Rail Workers.

By the Associated Press.

Two thousand railway employees were dismissed yesterday "in the said they would sue the Government for breach of contract."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely existing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Criticism of the Farm Board.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial of July 5, "A Plucky Stand," very seriously questions the sincerity of bankers, grain men and live stock men who dare to criticize the Farm Board. In my humble opinion, you are unjust and contradictory in your attempt to make it appear that the bankers, grain men and live stock men are actuated by selfish motives.

You state that President Hoover approved and permitted the policy of buying and selling of wheat in order to fix the price. Mr. Hoover undoubtedly permitted it, but that he ever approved of the policy is not justified by the facts. At the very beginning of the Farm Board's career, he warned the board against the fallacy of attempting to fix prices. He did this in a clear-cut statement that was not subject to misconstruction. This warning the board did not heed.

Your attempt to excuse the board on the ground that Messrs. Legge and McKelvie were the prime movers in this blunder, and are no longer members of the board, is not justified by the facts. As there is no evidence that the stabilization project was not wholeheartedly endorsed by the entire board, and also by Secretary Hyde. On the contrary, the members, including Chairman Stone, made speeches over the country justifying the wheat buying blunder. Chairman Stone made such a speech in St. Louis. Therefore, there is no justification for attempting to place the blame on Legge and McKelvie.

The Post-Dispatch may admire the pluck which the board is displaying in defending itself against a sea of trouble, but those troubles were created, approved and defended by the board, and there is no justification for trying to belittle its responsibility. You are absolutely right when you state that the board is local and not a sea of trouble, but those troubles were created, approved and defended by the board, and there is no justification for trying to belittle its responsibility. You are absolutely right when you state that the board is local and not a sea of trouble, but those troubles were created, approved and defended by the board, and there is no justification for trying to belittle its responsibility.

There was absolutely no excuse or justification for placing the Government in business to the extent of $300,000,000 in a vain attempt to fix the price of wheat. The board should have known that this huge attempt to fix prices by Government fiat would certainly fail, as all similar attempts had failed in the past. To attempt to inaugurate a plan for the betterment of agricultural conditions by a system that provided for the making of water to run up hills would be no more foolish, as all history proves the utter futility of all such preposterous schemes. The Farm Board may be plucky, but it is not acting openly and fairly with those who are furnishing it with the sinews of war. It has never admitted the failure of the wheat buying plan, but, on the contrary, is claiming that the plan was a howling success.

It points with pride to the fact that wheat was higher in Chicago than in Liverpool during the month of June. A candid statement would admit that its gigantic and disastrous blunder reduced the price of wheat the world over, and destroyed to a large extent the export market for farm products.

While pretending the success of the plan, the board is unequivocally declaring from the house tops that it will never again attempt to fix the prices of farm products. If the policy was a success, as the board claims, why not attempt to bolster the price now when wheat is selling for less than half of what it was when it inaugurated the buying scheme? The need for price fixing is far greater now than ever before.

The Post-Dispatch is in my opinion, the most fearless and the ablest editorial paper published west of the Mississippi River, if not in the nation. This being true, I cannot understand why you defend a board that is advocating a policy as un-American as the five-year plan of Stalin, a plan that would substitute for the present American system of live stock marketing a system bottomed on the idea of collective farming, where the individual farmer would be compelled to surrender all control over the marketing of his live stock.

I have read your editorials for more than 50 years, and I freely admit that they have played an important part in molding my opinion on public questions. I am utterly unable to understand how you can criticize those who oppose a policy which is wrong in principle and has disastrously failed in practice.

W. A. MOODY,
President St. Louis Live Stock Exchange.

Noise-Making Barbarity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ALL day of the 7th of July, as I tried to calm my aged mother after each terrific blast of fireworks, I tried to find a reason for this nerve-shattering custom of ours. The fireworks of beauty have a reason for existence, but for the more noise makers, I can think of but one reason—an outlet for those people still in a stage of uncivilized barbarism. If there is another reason, I'd like to be informed.

PAYING THE PIPER.

He who dances must pay the piper. The American people have been dancing and they, too, are paying the piper.

A recent edition of the Miami Post carries 132 pages of one-line notices to thousands of investors in Florida bonanzas that their property is to be sold for taxes.

This picturesque edition is an echo of the now lamented Florida boom. The Florida boom was a characteristic American orgy. It elevated values beyond all reason. The very sea bottom sold in some enchanted spots for better than a king's ransom. When the collapse came it left millions of gullible people all over the United States feverishly clutching title to property of so little value that the State now sells it out for taxes. Congress suppressed the Louisiana lottery, but it was not a circumstance to the Florida lottery. The American people want to be rich. When they cannot get their money down on one long shot, they put it on another. The Florida boom was always of such stuff as dreams are made on; but that did not make any difference. It was the long shot of the moment, and the country got down on it. Result: remorse and 132 pages of delinquent property tax notices in only one Florida paper.

Meanwhile, a committee from the Economic and Financial Section of the League of Nations has completed a study of the effects produced upon international trade and finance by our now even more lamented bull market. The committee took the period from the beginning of 1927 to the end of 1930. It found that international trade and finance had been dislocated everywhere by the high prices for money in the United States. Mr. Ford said of the bull market that it diverted from their usual channels not only the capital of American business but also its brains. The League of Nations committee finds that this was the effect of the bull market everywhere. It was not merely that it offered an opportunity for enrichment; it also offered high prices for short loans. Our own American corporations took their surplus and put them into the rich market created by the investment fever. Capital in England, France and other foreign countries was diverted to it.

The committee finds that international trade suffered a state of paralysis from this widespread diversion of interest and capital to the United States. The immediate effect of the excessive demand for short term credits for speculative purposes resulted in the general contraction of capital throughout the world, in a stringency of credit, and in increased interest rates. International capital that had been used for trading purposes and for financing Governments was diverted from these regular channels and went into the attractive market created by unprecedented speculation. The numerous changes in the movements of international capital were varied and peculiar, but after exhaustive study the committee reaches the conclusion that the stock market boom was at the bottom of them all. We were not content with the war debts and the poverty inflicted by war itself upon much of the world. We had to add our own high tariff and the various gambling rigs set up by the shrewd to catch the savings of all those who had something.

In the United States, net capital exports fell from $1,059,000,000 in 1923 to $212,000,000 in 1929. Net issues for foreign accounts in England fell off by one-third in 1929. France in the same period discontinued her usual capital exports, at the same time increasing her imports of gold and goods. By 1930 the British surplus on account of trade and other current transactions had fallen from $138,000,000 to $39,000,000. The world was by that time in a condition of financial chaos. Australia and several of the Latin American nations, as well as China, were bankrupt. Silver had dropped below 20 cents an ounce, the lowest price in history. The great foreign trade which the United States had built up had shrunk from more than $5,000,000,000 in 1923 to $3,433,281,000 in 1930. The unemployed were estimated at more than 50,000,000 in the five great industrial nations.

They were merry tunes the piper played—but there is nothing merry about the bill.

FOR TASTIER STAMPS.

The Department of Agriculture, which is seeking a new and more palatable gum for postage stamps, has a chance to turn the Postoffice Department's dismal deficits into stimulating surpluses. Letter writers have wearied of the monotonous gummy flavor borne by the adhesives, and probably would double their stamp purchases if a tastier mucilage were supplied. Flavors appropriate to the colors of the various denominations would be a master stroke of postal gastronomy. There could be a 1-cent stamp with mint mucilage, a 2-cent with raspberry, 4-cent brown gravy, 5-cent blueberry, 7-cent black walnut, and so on. With a little ingenuity an entire national menu could be worked in, from olives to coffee. Stenographers who now dash out at noon for a soda could save their lunch money by remaining in the office to stamp the morning's output of letters. Since no great constructive movement is complete without a slogan, we suggest this: "Stamps that stick to letters, with flavors that stick to the ribs."

RELIGION AND THE CONSTITUTION.

This country has managed to survive for more than 150 years despite the failure of the founders to incorporate religion in the Constitution, yet now comes a committee appointed by the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church to remedy what it considers a serious flaw in that document. The committee recommends that the preamble should be changed to begin as follows:

We, the people of the United States, devoutly recognizing the authority and law of Jesus Christ, the Savior and King of nations, and desiring to form a more perfect union, etc.

The United States is not a Christian nation, nor is it a non-Christian one. We think nothing wiser was done by the founders than to avoid taking sides on religion, and in granting freedom of worship to all citizens. The Constitution is a secular document, designed for the secular management of secular affairs. It is a rendering to Caesar of things that are Caesar's, and any attempt to infuse religion into it evidences a woeful lack of understanding of the history and purposes of the founding of the United States of America.

While the Presbyterian committee's suggestion needs hardly to be taken seriously, it may be pointed out that hundreds of thousands of American citizens do not recognize the authority and law of Jesus Christ. Among our citizenship are Mohammedans, Jews, Buddhists and other non-Christians, who would be automatically disfranchised if the proposed amendment were adopted. Imagine the furor in Presbyterian circles if a movement were started to place Mohammed in the preamble of the Constitution.

THE NEW METHOD OF BILLING GAS.

Numerous communications have been received from readers who are disturbed by the change in the La-clede company's method of billing gas. In the past, the cost of gas has been computed on a cubic foot basis, but, beginning June 1, the therm method was introduced. In other words, instead of measuring gas by volume, the company is now measuring it by heat content. Under present conditions, the cost of gas to the consumer is the same, whichever method is used.

Obviously, the company's reason for the change is the possibility that natural gas may be introduced in St. Louis for domestic purposes. It is now being furnished here only for a limited number of industrial plants. The legal requirement for gas in St. Louis is that it shall contain 600 British thermal units per cubic foot, a British thermal unit being the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. Natural gas has a higher B. T. U. content and, if it were furnished to consumers on the old cubic foot basis, the result in effect would be a reduction of rate.

Let us assume that, if natural gas is made available for domestic uses, it will be mixed with manufactured gas to produce a heat content of 800 B. T. U. At the cubic foot rate of billing, the consumer would obtain 600,000 B. T. U. from only 750 cubic feet, whereas he is now required to buy 1000 cubic feet to get that amount of heat. That would be to reduce by 25 per cent the amount of money the consumer spends for gas. Under the therm method of billing, no such automatic reduction would be possible.

However, this is not to say that the advent of natural gas will not result in rate reduction. The company itself has announced that it hopes, by the use of natural gas, to be able to offer a materially lower price for gas for house heating. Unless such a reduction were made, thus placing gas heating on a competitive basis with other fuels, there would be little object in bringing natural gas to St. Louis.

When and if natural gas is made available for domestic uses, any change in the B. T. U. content, as well as the rate charged, must be approved by the Public Service Commission, which has the power to inquire fully into all the circumstances surrounding the situation. There need be no alarm over the new method of billing, since it cannot be used to hide either a rate increase or a failure to reduce rates.

RADIOPHONE DIPLOMACY.

The fleet-footed or hard-riding courier was the chief agent of communication between Governments from Babylonian times up to relatively recent days. The ocean cable speeded diplomatic exchanges many-fold, but even this had its difficulties. Gen. Pershing tells in his memoirs how unsatisfactory such communication was, and how Secretary of War Baker had to spend much time in France just because cables could not give the desired personal contact. With a moratorium in the making, President Hoover and the diplomats turned to the trans-Atlantic telephone. That marvel of telephonic science proved itself in the negotiations, giving intimate contact with the speed of light waves, saving weeks of time and adding to international understanding. It cost $10 a minute to call up Paris, a total of about $7000, but such talk was cheap when the welfare of millions hung in the balance.

So thorough-going is science that there was no chance for trans-Atlantic switchboard operators to get a private earful of diplomatic secrets. By the process called "scrambled speech," the frequencies of the voice impulse are transposed, and the result is an unintelligible jargon. To make assurance doubly sure, the presidential conversations were scrambled twice, and the result was safer than any diplomatic code ever devised. At the receiving end a vacuum tube acted as a "translator," rearranging the gibberish into understandable speech. Until ocean television arrives, and Mr. Hoover can talk to Mr. Mellon's image on a screen in his office, the radiophone will be diplomacy's swiftest and most trustworthy messenger.

CONSULTATION OVER A SICK INDUSTRY.

It is difficult to see what, if anything short of complete reorganization, can be done about the coal industry, over which a consultation is being held in Washington today by Secretary Lamont and a delegation of coal operators. The story of coal is a repetition of the story of wheat and oil. That is, there is more of it than the country can use, and there is no prospect of disposing of the surplus in such a way as to afford wages to miners and returns upon invested capital.

Coal, moreover, has been in the doldrums longer than wheat, oil and other commodities with whose plenitude we are embarrassed. Even during the height of the Coolidge bubble, coal operators and employees did not share the prosperity of the remainder of the country. Production of bituminous coal, according to figures of the Bureau of Mines, dropped from 219,000,000 tons in the first five months of 1929 to 197,000,000 tons in the same period of 1930, while this year, up to June 1, only 160,000,000 tons were mined. In addition to the fact that the industry is overdeveloped, coal suffers the increasingly powerful rivalry of other forms of fuel. Dr. J. H. Parnelle of the Bureau of Railway Economics estimates that in 1929 hydro-electric power displaced almost 30,000,000 tons of soft coal, and the hydro-electric industry is still in its infancy. Discovery of huge stores of natural gas in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana will inevitably result in cutting heavily into coal consumption, and oil continues to grow as a competitor. Meanwhile, science is busily engaged in an effort to devise a means of extracting the energy of coal at the mine, which would increase economy of consumption.

The cure for coal's sick condition is limitation of production to the needs of the market, but, as in the case of wheat and oil, no process of putting it into effect has been found. Oil operators have tried to take that course, but find it impossible to get together, and wheat farmers ignore the constant preaching of the Farm Board to restrict production. If Secretary Lamont's conference finds the answer to the coal problem, it will contain the key to our fundamental economic malady.

Billy Burkowski, the new open golf champion, would better stick to the fairway or he will be deported as an alien.

THE CONVALESCENT.

Australia Goes Broke

After decade of artificial prosperity, based on high wages, high prices and protected industries, Australia faces day of reckoning; collapse of credit has followed collapse of world prices; higher tariffs fail to check slump, and politicians now urge currency inflation; new customs policy and end of borrowing are imperative.

Kurt Offenburg in Frankfurter (Germany) Zeitung; (Reprinted from Living Age).

"WE lived in a fool's paradise." This is how the Australian of today describes the past 10 years. Up to a few months ago, he did not understand how he could enjoy anything but well-being. In Sydney, with 1,113,000 inhabitants, poverty in the European sense did not exist; the beggar was an almost unknown figure. But the last six months have rapidly and ruthlessly destroyed all Australia's lovely dreams of wealth, and the country has been forced to recognize that it is only a small and not very important part of the world economic system.

The few voices of warning that announced the impossibility of maintaining post-war prices for necessities of life attracted no attention. The economic leaders recognized too late that the great hunger for goods which followed the war had been appeased by overproduction, and that the buying power of Australia's chief customers, England, Western Europe and Japan, was falling rapidly. When these markets began to slump, the Australian economic system was shaken to its foundations. No one had reckoned on such a possibility. High prices were taken for granted and not discussed.

Early in 1928, when prices, especially woolen, wheat and mineral prices, began to drop, Australia believed the market was merely undergoing a temporary decline. But this was a false hope. Although prices went lower and lower, neither private nor public expenditures were reduced. The Australian mentality, which is 100 per cent optimistic, could not make up its mind to reduce the standard of living even slightly. Public money was spent with the same lavish hand.

The people and the Government both believed that the shortage of money caused by the lowered returns from export trade could be remedied by new borrowings. Debts increased, the standard of living was maintained and export values continued to decline. An attempt was made to increase the returns from exports by increasing their volume, but it failed and had to fail, because prices fell more rapidly than ever before in Australian economic history.

The foreign creditors, England and America, grew distrustful and refused to increase the mounting deficit by granting further loans. Suddenly Australia, thrown back on its own resources, began to realize that in the happy days of prosperity it had neglected to provide against leaner times. The Government then began making the same mistake it had so often made before, and attempted to cure economic ills by political measures. The Australian has never understood that economic laws rule the world as mercilessly as the laws of nature, and even today he still believes that he has attained economic independence from other countries.

The only way to bring Australia to its senses would be to refuse to extend it further credit. This step England took after the Commonwealth Government turned down the Melbourne agreement. But the statesmen at Canberra have their own solution, and are convinced that salvation lies in printing more paper money.

Most Australians admit the weal of their country depends on its agriculture and not on its industry for a long time. But they have a kind of national vanity that urges them to produce industrial goods at home. This naturally has led to an unparalleled tariff policy that has not only raised living expenses, but has also made the operating expenses of agriculture so high that Australian products can be sold on the world market only with great difficulty, while the domestic consumer has to pay enormous prices to make up for losses on exports.

When the world price of wheat and wool collapsed, the whole situation changed completely. High wages could no longer be paid, and since the workers would not accept any reductions, they began losing their jobs in great numbers. At the present time there are 240,000 unemployed in Australia, a record for all time.

Industries can go on living only by virtue of the high tariffs, and in the last 12 months tariffs have been raised three times without, however, checking the increase in unemployment. The Commonwealth Government is therefore pushing its industrial policy still further. It has picked out certain industries that are supposed to be essential and is paying them a bounty that is the only means of keeping them alive. Another means of protecting native industries is the embargo, which now excludes 15 different articles, with more items constantly being added to the list.

All factories must produce for a ridiculously small domestic market of 5,500,000 consumers, because not a single Australian industry is capable of competing on the world market. The trouble lies in the absurd methods of production, which are made possible by the artificial elimination of world competition, and also by high wages, which in turn are made possible by the enormous tariff on imported goods. Thus the circle completes itself.

Only a change in the present customs policy can do any good. When one attempts to explain this to an Australian, he usually replies that the Americans are paying even higher wages in their industries. But he quite overlooks the fact that American industry is supplying a protected domestic market of 125,000,000, and is therefore able to profit from rationalized mass production; that the Americans work harder for the wages they are paid than the Australians do, and that American methods are pointless here as long as there are only 5,500,000 consumers on the continent.

HARMONY in the Democratic party will come, not when they get together, but if they're kept apart.

A Defense of Sweepstakes

Robert Lynd in the New Statesman and Nation, London.

I DO not wish to overemphasize the moral value of sweepstakes. I should be content to rest their claims on the addition they make to the general stock of harmless pleasures. The whole business has been described as a craze, but is there anything crazy in wanting to be rich? Is everyone who succeeds in business to be looked on as a madman? Were all the great houses of England built by lunatics? If we are crazy in wishing to make our fortunes, we are crazy in good company.

One would gather from some of the denunciations of sweepstakes, however, that the ordinary human being, having bought a ticket, is able to think of nothing else but the draw is over. The milkman forgets to deliver the milk; the postman drops the letters into wrong boxes, the clergyman preaches an unintelligible sermon, the barber loses his case through not having studied his brief, the waiters bring poached eggs instead of fried—all because everybody has gone crazy with the dream of winning a fortune.

It is a pretty picture, but somehow unlike life. Strange as it may seem, all of us went on with our work as usual. If our conversation and thoughts were trivial, there were no more trivial than before. We played a game, and it took less time than cricket—a game, it seems to me, far more becoming to a serious-minded man than bridge or even bequie. We played a game, and we lost, and we do not care. We will try again the next time, if the police will let us.

I wish those who abuse lotteries would read Charles Lamb's essay on the subject, "The Illustrious Defunct." Lamb can scarcely be regarded as an apostle of the vices, and here he paints an entrancing picture of the paradise—the fool's paradise, if you like—that owes its existence to lotteries. He shows how, even under the bitterest disappointment, the ticketholder is a gainer by his dreams.

He tells of a man who, in passing along Cheapside, saw the number 1063—the number of his own ticket—in the window of a lottery office. Elated by his triumph, he decided to walk around St. Paul's in order to consider how he should break the news to his family. After his walk around the cathedral, he returned to the shop and discovered that the number had been changed to 10,069, and, going inside, was told that a clerk had originally made a mistake. "This," says Lamb, "effectively calmed his agitation, but he always speaks of himself as having once possessed £20,000, and maintains that his 10 minutes walk around St. Paul's was worth 10 times the purchase money of his ticket."

I doubt if I myself could have drawn good out of evil in this fashion, but even poor men to whom 10 shillings is a sum that has to be saved up for have told me that they and their families, though not winning a prize, find a ticket in a sweepstake well worth the purchase money. To be rich in our dreams is the only kind of riches most of us are ever likely to possess. Who, without a twinge of conscience, could grudge tolling mortals this handful of fairy gold?

Not So Daring

MOK. By Stefan Zweig. (The Viking Press, New York City, $1.50).

WHE Neue Freie Presse is quoted on this novelette by Stefan Zweig: "Breath-taking excitement, passionate intensity, acute sensations. . . . Captures, excites, compels us, and holds us prisoner the last word. . . . The etching pictures that are unforgettable. . . . a tropic night on board an ocean liner."

A mere American provincial, I ought to fall into a fit upon such an utterance from a distinguished critical source, but somehow all this sounds suspiciously like a snatch from a distressingly familiar song that our own literary hucksters are constantly singing by ear. Incidentally, if it is a glowing about all over the world, "capturing" "holding them prisoner" and "holding them prisoner" something drastic ought to be done about it. Several years ago, according to the critical chorus, large numbers of literary men were successfully engaged in the business of "capturing the spirit" of this or that "imprisoning it" in imperishable verse or prose. Why anyone wanted to capture a spirit of any sort and still the draw is over. The milkman forgets to deliver the milk; the postman drops the letters into wrong boxes, the clergyman preaches an unintelligible sermon, the barber loses his case through not having studied his brief, the waiters bring poached eggs instead of fried—all because everybody has gone crazy with the dream of winning a fortune.

Not So Daring

By Stefan Zweig. (The Viking Press, New York City, 1930.)

NEUFE FRIE PRESSE is quoted on this novelette by Stefan Zweig: "Breath-taking excitement, passionate intensity, acute sensations."

...and holds us prisoner of the last word. ... The etching of pictures that are unforgettable ... a tropic night on board an ocean liner.

A mere American provincial, too much ought to fall into a fit upon such an utterance from an authoritative critical source, but somehow all this sounds suspiciously like a snatch from a distressingly familiar song that our own literary hucksters are constantly singing by ear. Incidentally, it's one that authors in large numbers, currently reported by the critics, are proving about all over the civilized world "capturing" innocent people and "holding them prisoner," something drastic ought to be done about it. Several years ago, according to the critical chorus, large numbers of literary persons were successfully engaged in the business of "capturing the spirit" of this or that and "imprisoning it" in imperishable verse or prose. Why anyone wanted to capture a spirit of any sort and keep it a full sentence, nobody ever explained, but apparently nearly everybody was doing it. As for the "unforgettable," so commonly applied to contemporary masterpieces, it is not to be forgotten that Time seems, more than anything else, a process of forgetting. It is, generally speaking, precisely those things proclaimed unforgettable by the moment that Oblivion most readily devours. Nevertheless, a certain admirable critical restraint is to be noted in the cited passage, since nothing is said about "Amok" being the greatest book of this century or of this generation or even of a decade.

As a matter of fact, "Amok" is a remarkable bit of writing in the prevailing morbid vein. The publisher states that the story was published with great success abroad, but until now has not been translated into English, "for fear that its subject matter might prove too daring for the Anglo-Saxon taste."

But now that there has been "a broadening of the literary mores" over here, we of the American intelligentsia are no longer unjustly deprived of our rightful inheritance. This familiar dodge of the professional blurbster seems to work well. "Here is something decidedly shady. You who read this blurb, unlike so many of your hypocritical countrymen, are broad and European and civilized in your outlook and therefore capable of appreciating advanced thought!"

How we do love to kid ourselves and be kidded!

Unfortunately, "Amok" isn't so very "daring" after all. It deals with nothing worse than a fit of erotomania experienced by a German physician in Java and a little matter of abortion with tragic results. Nothing at all to shock a civilized person.

Zweig has done this thing with unquestionable economy and power. If it were, in general character, an exceptional thing to do, it would be a process of forget-

NOTED ENGLISH CHEMIST DIES

By the Associated Press.

WORKING, Surrey, England, July 9.—Sir Charles Henry Bedford, distinguished chemist, died at his home yesterday at the age of 65.

Sir Charles was technical adviser on chemical affairs to the Indian Government for many years. He founded the King Alfonso chair of Spanish studies at Oxford University and the Anglo-Spanish and Spanish-American Institute in London.

This reviewer would be more deeply impressed. But, in view of the prevailing world-fashion, it seems too much like a bit of more than ordinarily skillful pandering.

And how one does sometimes yearn for the large constructive vision, of far-seeing greatness in mind and spirit!

THE MOONSTONE. By Wilkie Collins. (Harper Bros., New York City, 1900.)

One of the most famous, and by many critics acclaimed the greatest of all mystery stories, is reissued for a generation generally unfamiliar with the book, in the belief that it can easily hold its own against the current flood of detective fiction.

PRINCE CONSORT. By Frank B. Chancellor. (Lincoln MacVegh, Inc., Dial Press, New York City, 1930.)

It is said that there have been two biographies of Queen Victoria's husband prior to this one, both written more than a half century ago when, thanks to the influence of the doting Queen, the truth was hardly likely to emerge. Now, at last, the reader understands, the whole truth may be known. Just why anyone should be especially eager to know it seems less than clear.

PUSH CART markets, which give such a bright bougeous flair to Rivington and Orchard streets on the lower East Side Ghetto, are making the last stand.

They go the way of squalid tenements mowed down to make room for model and livable apartments.

Children who once played in the gutters' now romp in innumerable spacious playgrounds. The push cart is the final relic of a dimming squalor. There are 15,000 peddlers in the area. Mostly they are past middle age and often incredibly old.

Many push cart men have gone from Orchard and Rivington far uptown to open little shops in the Bronx and live in airy walk up apartments. Later if they prospered they opened stores on Broadway. And a number have attained a Fifth avenue store and a home on the Drive.

The fight against the push cart army is impersonal. The East Side Chamber of Commerce and other mercantile associations want them driven out because they contend their presence renders the section hideous and unsanitary and make a well ordered establishment impossible.

The push cart men say that as it is they are only able to make about $4 a day high and in some instances average no more than 25 cents. In opulent times they were able to realize a profit of from $10 to $15 a day. The difficulty will be in absorbing those thrown out of work.

DEFECT FOUND IN FIVE NEW AMERICAN CRUISERS

Stern Post Castings Faulty; Cause of Trouble Not Yet Ascertained.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Defective stern post castings have been discovered on five of the new eight-inch gun naval cruisers. The stern post is a large piece of boundary casting which acts as a rudder post. It is of extreme importance in steering the fast 10,000-ton craft.

The defect was discovered first on the Chester during her preliminary full-power trials. It also was found, the Navy Department announced yesterday, on the Louisville, Chicago, Northampton and Augusta. The Pensacola, Houston and Salt Lake City, among the first of the eight cruisers authorized in 1924 under the terms of the Washington arms conference, have proved satisfactory.

Rear Admiral George H. Rock, chief of the Bureau of Construction, expressed doubt as to whether the fault is with the casting or the designing. He noted that since the stern post of the Chester had been replaced at the New York Navy Yard at a cost of $18,000, to the builder, no trouble had been experienced. Replacement is to be made in the other cruisers.

Naval officials have been puzzled because the same defect was found in the ships, although they were built in different construction plants.

CLOSING OF DETROIT REFUGE FOR HOMELESS IS DEFERRED

Week Allowed for Gradual Vacating of Dormitory; Demonstration by Communists.

DETROIT, Mich., July 9.—A week's respite for the Fisher Lodge for homeless men was allowed yesterday by the Public Welfare Commission which acted against the desires of Mayor Frank Murphy Tuesday in recommending to the city Council that the lodge be closed. The respite, John F. Ballenger, Deputy Superintendent of the Welfare Department, said, would permit a gradual vacation of the dormitory, and did not indicate that the commission had altered its opinion the municipal lodging house inmates could be cared for efficiently at the County Infirmary.

Nearly 1000 men, many of them occupants of the lodge, congregated at the City Hall yesterday while John Schmies, Communist candidate for Mayor and their spokesman, demanded that the Council create a $100,000,000 fund for unemployment relief.

Mayor Murphy denied he had a personal bodyguard, either of Federal agents or policemen. He said U. S. Department of Justice agents conspicuous about the City Hall recently were assigned to keep in touch with Communist activities for which, he said, Detroit had become a center.

POLITICIANS' RELATIVES CALLED IN NEW YORK INVESTIGATION

Inquirers Seek to Learn Whether They Are Employed by Companies Dealing With City.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Legislative Committee investigating the municipal government today tried to learn whether companies doing business with the city employed relatives of politically powerful men in preference to others. Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee, has subpoenaed William H. Walker Jr., nephew of Mayor Walker, and Donald Byrne, a nephew of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic boss, for questioning. Foster J. Hagan, son of a late Tammany leader, has been questioned about his job with a cement company which did a large business with the city.

Seabury disclosed that John O. Lewis, missing inspector of buildings, banked $150,000, although his salary was $3120 a year.

guilty of discourtesy to the English if I decided then by appearing not as I am but as I may think or my friends may think they would have me to be.

"If I am to win their hearts as I want to I can do so only by being 100 per cent truthful. Truth is like the sun. It will melt the icy mountain of suspicion and distrust."

In an editorial headed "Is It Crumbling?" Gandhi accused the British Government of failure to observe the Delhi truce.

"Complaints are pouring in from many parts that local officials are breaking the Delhi pact to pieces," he wrote, "and it almost looks as if the Government was at war with the Congress and that every Congressman almost was suspect."

He quoted communications from secretaries of the Congress from various parts of the country complaining at what they termed forcible dispersal of their meetings.

"Impatient Congressmen who read this catalogue of complaints may well ask, 'How long are we to wait and bear this?'" Gandhi continued. "My answer is the same—you must as long as the working committee thinks necessary. We must continue to fulfill our part of the agreement. The greater our patience—another word for suffering—the greater will be our strength."

Boy Missing Three Days Found at South Halifax, Mass.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH HALIFAX, Mass., July 9.—Joseph Rego, 6 years old, stood in mud and water up to his neck yesterday and welcomed a posse which had been searching for him since he disappeared Monday. Suffering from exposure, the boy was hauled from Thompson's bog at Plympton and taken home, where his first demand was for a piece of cake.

Townpeople and policemen were searching the district when Gilbert Thompson, town surveyor of South Halifax, saw a hand waving. The boy suffered from scratches and cuts by thorns and underbrush. He ate his cake with relish after three days' diet on berries. Joseph disappeared while on a berrying party.

SILAS M. NEWTON, AMATEUR GOLFER, CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Complainant Says He Was Duped Into Buying Stocks and Lost $74,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Silas M. Newton, oil operator and an amateur golfer of note, was out on bail today, having been arrested yesterday on complaint of Hugo E. Distelhurst, 74, retired real estate operator, living in Upper Montclair, N. J., that he had been defrauded of $74,000.

Distelhurst charged Newton had duped him into buying 250 shares of Indiana Southwestern Gas & Utilities stock. Newton was arrested when he arrived at the New York Attorney General's office in answer to a summons. He said he would welcome investigation.

A year and a half ago Newton was married to Nan O'Reilly, newspaper golf writer. He is a friend of George Von Elm.

WESTERN CANADIAN WHEAT POOLS NEED AID TO SURVIVE
 Light Crop in Prospect: Liabilities to Governments and Banks of $25,000,000.
 By the Associated Press.
 WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 9.—The wheat pools of Western Canada, marketing agency for 147,000 farmer-members, must find aid or see the death of the co-operative system, according to representations made to Federal and provincial Governments by pool executives.

 The pools are faced with heavy liabilities to the Governments and banks, which total $25,000,000, and with the prospect of a light crop. A possible solution is seen by the executives in the reorganization of the Manitoba pool. A change in contact permits members to sell grain through voluntary pooling or on the open market, a drastic change in policy. It is thought that the same system will be put into effect by Saskatchewan and Alberta.

 The troubles of the pools are based on the world depression, which cut off foreign markets. Their physical assets, elevator systems and administrative buildings are said to approximate liabilities to provincial Governments.

Australian Salary Cuts OK'd.
 By the Associated Press.
 CANBERRA, Australia, July 9.—The House passed on second reading yesterday the Government's finance emergency bill providing for reductions of from 20 to 25 per cent in parliamentary salaries and allowances, 20 per cent in civil service salaries and varying reductions in old age, invalid and maternity pensions.

OPENING OF MISSOURI RIVER IN 1932 DEPENDS ON RISE
 By the Associated Press.
 KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 9.—Capt. Theodore Wyman, district engineer in charge, said yesterday whether barges will be operated on the lower Missouri River in 1932 would be determined by an inspection trip in two weeks.
 The usual June rise, he said, has failed to materialize. The barges will be operated next year, the officer explained, if the slight rise was sufficient to fill in the relements and establish the channel.
 Boats of the Inland Waterways Corporation will not be put on the Missouri until the district engineer's office certifies the channel is adequate for navigation.

RAINS BROUGHT RELIEF TO CROPS IN MISSOURI
 Late Sown Oats Damaged but Corn Regains Color and Some Is Laid by.
 By the Associated Press.
 COLUMBIA, Mo., July 9.—Showers and generous to heavy rains since Friday have brought relief to most farm crops beginning to suffer after two weeks or more of persistent hot, dry weather throughout the State, but have not interfered much with the nearly completed harvest of wheat, according to the weekly weather and crop bulletin of the United States Weather Bureau.
 "Temperatures dropped from 100 to 104 degrees daily down to the middle 70s by Sunday and Monday," the report continues. "Over most of the State the rainfall was of great benefit, ranging from one to three inches. In most of the Central and North Central counties it was too light to be of much benefit, and hardly any relief at all in Cooper to Audrain, Randolph, Macon, Linn, Livingston and other nearby counties."
 "Late sown oats have been damaged, otherwise the crop is good. Corn mostly has regained its dark green color and is looking well as a rule. Much is waist high and a small amount is laid by and tasseling. In most counties more rain is needed to keep the crop in normal growth, about one inch of water every 10 days to the middle of August."
 "The commercial tomato crop of the Ozarks was favored by timely rains and the fruit is setting well." Chillicothe, with 10.6, reported the highest temperature of the week, and Arcadia and Kidder, each with 52, the low. Arcadia, with 2.48 inches, had the greatest rainfall among the reporting stations. The rainfall for the week was approximately normal, but the total since April 1 is still more than two inches below normal.

States. Weather Bureau, said yesterday:
 "Rainfall during the last week has been spotted, varying from very little to excessive falls," the report said. "Rain was needed in many areas and some of these have been relieved."
 "Winter wheat harvest has begun in the north third of the State and they are threshing in the south. The oat harvest has begun in central counties. Local winds blew down corn and small grains and near Pontiac corn was damaged by hail. The progress of corn was excellent in the northern division and good in the central and south. Much has been laid by. The warm weather was favorable for corn where there was ample moisture, but rain is still needed in places."

The Dollar SAVED Yesterday

and

SPENT TODAY buys far MORE

THE dollar of today has greater purchasing power than the dollar of last year or of several years ago.

Commodity prices of today are at a lower level than they have been for years.

The dollar laid away a few years ago has grown in value—it will buy far more because the price of merchandise in all lines is lower.

Things wanted and things needed, but done without, can be bought at prices which encourage buying now while the dollar value is up and merchandise prices are down.

There are times to save and times to spend.

Today it is more profitable to spend than to save. This fact is made clearer to those who read the advertisements in this newspaper and compare today's prices with those of the last several years.

TODAY'S NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(COMPLETE)
SPECIAL ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

Fractional Gains Predominate at the Close Despite Spells of Heaviness in Morning and Again in Mid Afternoon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The financial markets did little more than mark time today, pending news of developments from the German Reichsbank at London and Paris. The stock market ended with fractional gains predominating, although it had spells of heaviness in the morning, and again in mid-afternoon. Motors, chemicals and rails were bought and generally closed higher. The bond market worked narrowly lower, and most commodities were generally under pressure. Commercial Solvents was a strong spot in stocks, rising nearly two points, the best advance for this issue in some time. Drums, Inc. also pushed up about two points. Motors were helped by Auburn's and Nash's quarterly statements. Auburn gained 3 and Nash, Chrysler and General Motors sold up about a point. Consolidated Gas was also a firm spot, gaining nearly two points. In the rails closed 1/4 of a point higher, after showing a temporary loss of 1 1/2. The day's turnover was only about $100,000,000, the lowest since the Reichsbank trouble in London and Paris was about steady. The continued withdrawals of foreign credits from Berlin have received some attention, despite the fact that important banking circles warned that the debt accord could not be expected to check them immediately. Losses amounted to over $100,000,000 from the Reichsbank today, as against $60,000,000 yesterday. Nevertheless, Germany still has a substantial balance in New York, estimated as in excess of $70,000,000. The view among many here is that the Reichsbank, to London and Paris was rumored to be in connection with the raising of an additional large credit, in which the Federal Reserve will participate. Amounting to $100,000,000 to $500,000,000 have been mentioned. Federal Reserve officials met today. The course of action was believed to hinge upon Luther's negotiations in Paris.

There was little in today's domestic news to influence the stock market. Fox Film was depressed by its report showing only 45 cents a share earned in the 13 weeks to March 25, against $1.72 in the like period of last year. The weekly report of freight car loadings showed the predicted gain of more than 20,000 cars. Gov. Sterling of Texas called the legislature to convene today. The course of action was believed to hinge upon Luther's negotiations in Paris.

THE MURDER OF THE CHOIR SINGER

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

"NOW, Mr. Saunders," said Thatcher Colt, "I want you to remember that you will do no good to anyone by keeping any secrets from me. I ask you—was there, in your opinion, any undue friendliness between your wife and the Reverend Doctor Beazeley?"

"Never. Never. I told you that twice before. Never!" shouted Saunders, leaping from his chair and pounding one hairy fist into the palm of his brother.

The daughter wept softly. "Do you consider that your wife was always faithful to you?" "I know it. It was only they both thought I was a whisky drunk—that's all. And they were old friends. Evy worked hard for him. There wasn't one thing in the church work Evy didn't know about and help out on, and a lot of her ideas went into the success of the church and the Reverend got the credit for it. But Evy didn't mind. Evy always said it was the Lord's work. No, of course, there wasn't nothing wrong between them. Wouldn't I be the first to know?"

With which unanswerable argument, Saunders sat down heavily again and wiped his brow. "Do you know of any enemies, either of Beazeley or your wife?" The father and daughter exchanged glances. Then he said: "Evy didn't have any enemies. Why should she? But one person didn't like her. And the same person didn't like the parson, neither. And he's the sort of person you never can tell what he will do."

"Who is that?" "Paddy Curtinwood. He's not right, you know. More than once he went for Evy, when she was working there in the church—came at her with a knife. A dull knife that they let him play with—but it was a knife! Evy was afraid of Paddy because he took a nasty dislike to her from the time she started to work in the church. Evy always said his sister—the preacher's wife—set him against her."

The steadfast gaze of Thatcher Colt was reserved, enigmatic. "Anyone else, ever?" Paddy attacked your wife with a knife?" "I don't just remember. My head ain't so clear tonight. Maybe tomorrow."

"Tomorrow we'll both be able to remember it," said Isabel soothingly. "I'm sure some other people did see it. Mother always said so." Colt told the father and daughter they might return home.

"You understand there are policemen at your house? That it is being thoroughly searched?" They nodded patiently. "And you won't mind, later in the day, holding yourself in readiness to be questioned again, as soon as I need you?"

"Not at all. Of course, Isabel wouldn't go to school anyhow and all this will likely cost me my job. When can we have the body?" "After the autopsy. In a day or so. Thank you both," said Isabel, standing with him, her arm linked with his, and so she led her father out of the room.

DOUGHERTY looked at his watch. It was now 6 o'clock, he said. "We can't do much, until 7 o'clock, when the offices and stores open up."

Colt nodded, and then smiled brightly. "There are five baths in this house," he reminded us. "Wouldn't we all enjoy a shower?"

With sighs of relief, we stood up as Colt pressed a buzzer to summon the butler. "By the way," he said, "Lengel will you instruct the man who is chasing up the church gossip to make inquiries about Paddy Curtinwood and his knife?"

"I have made a note of it," answered Lengel proudly. "When we had reassembled from our separate bedrooms, Arthur had spread breakfast for us in the library. The sight of orange juice, cereals and cream, fried eggs and amb chops greatly revived our spirits. The coffee, bubbling in the silver percolator, was a beautiful alibi."

It was on the second cup of coffee that Colt leaned back in the chair, smelt of the fresh gardenia in his lapel, and smiled beamingly at Dougherty.

"I have heard," he said, "of people in our detective department who believe in the 'murderer's eye.' It is said you can tell a potential murderer by the flick of his lash, or to speak. Did you see any murderer's eyes during the last few hours, Dougherty?"

"Stuff and nonsense," returned the District Attorney, thickly buttering the latest of a long succession of hot rolls. "The celebrated English murderer, Patrick Mahon, had the mild eyes of a spaniel, yet he killed Emily Kaye, dismembered her body and boiled the pieces."

And Dougherty bit into his roll with relish.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Jago Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Sunstroke

THE "sunstroke season" is with us, and it is, therefore, timely to consider this hazard, its avoidance and emergency treatment.

The two conditions commonly included under this heading are sunstroke and heat exhaustion. Both are directly due to heat, but their symptoms are different, and what is more important, their emergency treatment is different.

In both sunstroke and heat exhaustion the patient collapses. Fatigue, poor food, unhygienic surroundings and the excessive use of alcohol favor the development of these conditions.

One does not need to be exposed to the sun to suffer sunstroke or heat exhaustion. Any exposure to high temperature, especially when fatigued, may cause a collapse.

In sunstroke the condition develops suddenly, the patient not infrequently being found unconscious. He may suffer convulsions and void the contents of his bladder and rectum. His skin is usually hot and flushed, the pulse rapid. The temperature is high, up to 103 degrees.

Heat exhaustion sets in less suddenly. The patient complains of giddiness, nausea and has an uncertain step. The skin is usually pale and covered with a clammy sweat. The pulse is rapid and feeble. Unconsciousness may follow shortly after the onset of the symptoms.

In heat exhaustion the patient needs stimulation. Ammonia, coffee and whisky may be used in small quantities. If the patient's temperature is low he should be warmed.

In sunstroke every effort should be made to lower the patient's temperature. Cold water and rubbing the body with ice is an excellent procedure.

In all instances of collapse medical aid should be secured, for, even if the patient appears to recover after first aid treatment, a second and more serious collapse may follow.

STIMSON'S TALK
WAS "EMINENTLY SATISFACTORY"

Secretary of State Says Premier and Grandi Left Nothing to Be Desired in Reception They Gave Him.

DICTATOR SAYS HE HAS CHOSEN PEACE

Declares Success of Disarmament Conference Is Indispensable and Italy Will Accept Lowest Possible
Figure if Others Do Same

By the Associated Press.
ROME, July 10.—Secretary of State Stimson said today the talks
he had with Premier Mussolini and Finance Minister Dino Grandi yesterday were eminently satisfactory.
"They furthered one purpose I had in coming to Europe," Stimson explained, "that is, to form my own impressions concerning conditions
here. The Premier and Signor Grandi left nothing to be desired
in the reception they gave me."

Stimson received newspaper men under the trees of the park surrounding the new United States Embassy. Tomorrow the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will leave Rome probably for Florence.

Early this afternoon he was the guest at luncheon given by Grandi
in the famous Borghese Gallery which contains one of the finest art collections in Rome.

Mussolini talked to Press.
Mussolini granted one of his infrequent interviews to correspondents last night in the Palazzo Venezia and told them of his conference with Stimson.

"There are two roads—a road toward war and a road toward peace," he said. "I told Mr. Stimson that I have chosen the road toward peace. Mr. Stimson and I find ourselves in accord in choosing that road."

"Italy, for her part, will go to the next disarmament conference with a sincere desire for peace. In order to solve the economic problem it is necessary to solve the political crisis and that of morale.
The success of the disarmament conference is indispensable, so that the people may have faith in their Government. The people must not be disillusioned."

Arms reduction should be discussed at Geneva next February in terms of principles rather than terms of guns and tons, Mussolini said.

Italy is disposed to accept the lowest figure of armament—even a limit of 10,000 rifles for all Italy," he continued, "provided no other nation has more. Of course, if any reduction would be placing Italy in the position of defending herself with a club against a pistol."

"I have a great optimism over the prospects of economic recovery
during the coming years, especially if the disarmament conference is a success. Disarmament success would clear a horizon which would be obscured if the conference does not produce results. The date must not be postponed."

Praises Moratorium Plan.
He described the Hoover moratorium as an important event and Stimson's visit to Europe as an important one.

"Italy seconds fully President Hoover's initiative," he said, "an initiative that I consider one of the greatest political factors since the war."

Secretary Stimson's visit to Europe is highly important, even though it is not official, because he is the Secretary of State of the largest republic in the world. I am most favorably impressed by the Secretary. Besides being a likeable and cordial gentleman, he is also a very wise statesman."

Stimson again talked with Mussolini and Grandi at a dinner given by United States Ambassador John S. Garrett and Mrs. Garrett last evening. Mussolini wore a white flannel suit, white shoes and a soft blue shirt. He was in the best of humor, joking in English
when he could and resorting to Italian when English words failed
him.

Stimson issued a brief statement denying a story reported to have been published in the United States that he favored postponement of next year's disarmament conference. He said there was no basis
